Paltz Dormitory Racially Segregated Is Nyquist Ruling

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

State Education Commissioner Ewald Nyquist, at the direction of the Board of Regents of the State University of New York, has ruled that College Hall dormitory at the State University College at New Paltz is being operated as a racially segregated facility, and that this must stop. The college has appealed the ruling.

According to Gordon Dillahunt, director of housing at New Paltz, Nyquist's letter to New Paltz pointed out that the college could appeal the ruling; if it did not appeal the college was to set forth plans to dismantle the College Hall operation.

Dillahunt said the college's letter of appeal was sent out Jan. 31, through State University Vice Chancellor James Smoot, with nothing heard from the State University since.

College Hall is known as Chango to the students living in it, and it began operating as a "Third World" dormitory during the 1971-'72 school year. It was the first step of a program which has expanded at New Paltz, that of grouping students of like interests together in the dorms on a voluntary basis.

Those who have chosen to live in Chango are predominantly black, though some whites do live there. Dillahunt said at last count there were 104 students living in Chango, seven of whom were white.

Dillahunt defended Chango as not being "exclusionary" housing, but rather voluntary, and said it had helped both the students living there and the campus as a whole.

He said for the residents there were activities devoted to the study of Third World cultures, workshops and clubs, and the publication of a Third World oriented newspaper.

Special

As for the campus as a whole, Dillahunt said, "It has helped immeasurably in creating greater understanding on campus . . . I have seen the results of it."

What Chango is said to be in violation of is a 1972 position paper put forth by the Regents on minority access to higher education, which called for total desegregation of all the state's campuses.

Asked if the State Education Department had dealt with the question of voluntary grouping along racial lines before, Byron Connell, assistant to the deputy commissioner for higher education, said Tuesday, "I don't believe so."

However, he said the Regents' position was clear on the matter. "The Regents' position is that self-segregation is segregation."

Nyquist issued his ruling after a visitation to the New Paltz campus by a team of educational inspectors, empowered by the Board of Regents, this past September. Since New Paltz disagrees with the findings of the visitation, a hearing on the matter will be held. Connell said this could be before Nyquist, or before a subcommittee of the Regents, or hearings before both. He said in any case the Board of Regents had the final say.

According to Connell, if New Paltz is finally ruled against the college is free to go to court to try and get the decision overturned.

He said the State Education Department hoped to have the matter resolved by the end of the spring semester, if the case did not wind up in court.

Dillahunt has been put in a strange position —himself a black, he is in effect been charged with running a segregated dormitory. He said he had "strong feelings" about the Nyquist ruling, but had "tried to be objective" in dealing with it.

He said he had been contacted by a number of schools, including Vassar, Cornell, Sarah Lawrence, and Rennselaer Polytechnic Institute, who have housing programs similar to Chango, and want to keep them.

"Most institutions in the state have developed some kind of alternative housing to facilitate ethnic study," said Dillahunt.

SALVATION ARMY DEMOLITION—No, this isn't the Salvation Army's new building on Cedar Street being demolished. it's the old one on North Front Street. The old Salvation Army building is attached to a really old building, the Hoffman House, built in the late 17th century. The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, which has spent almost $90,000 in restoring the exterior of the Hoffman House, is clearing the parcel for sale later this year, via demolition of the adjoining Salvation Army building, built in the early 20th century. $5,000 in Stolen Jewelry Found in Paltz Alleyway

By MATT SPIRENG

NEW PALTZ

Acting on an anonymous tip Tuesday afternoon, New Paltz Village Police recovered an estimated $5,000 worth of jewelry taken in three recent burglaries from an alleyway believed to be a hangout for drug addicts.

Police found about 15 trays of jewelry stashed in the alleyway off Main Street. Found with the rings, bracelets, earrings and other jewelry items was a letterbox containing six hypodermic needles. A complete set of "works" for injecting drugs was found nearby, police said.

Police said the 15 trays of jewelry which were recovered represent about 80 per cent of the items taken in three burglaries from the Troika, a mod-type Church Street jewelry and clothing store, since Jan. 21.

The anonymous male caller contacted police shortly after 4 p.m. "He said there was jewelry from the Troika that police were looking for in the alleyway," one officer said.

Patrolmen and police cadets went to the alleyway where they found most of the trays of jewelry and the letterbox lying under a low overhang from a building. More jewelry and narcotics implements were found nearby in the alleyway as the search continued, police said.

The letterbox which was found containing the hypodermic needles appeared to have been in the alleyway for a long period, according to authorities. There was no name on it and no indication as to where it might have come from.

One patrolman said it appeared the thefts of the jewelry from the Troika definitely looked as if they were done by "junkies" and that the alleway appeared to be a good place to hide the stolen items.

About 20 trays of jewelry were reported taken in the three burglaries from the Troika. Police said the value of the jewelry was believed to be around $5,000.

Twice the store had been entered by breaking a window, and once the door was kicked in.

Meanwhile, New Paltz Village Police are also investigating two burglaries in the past two nights from the Elting Memorial Library on Main Street.

After breaking a window, a burglar ransacked the library on Monday night, police said, and made off with a quantity of petty cash from a desk drawer.

Authorities said they believe the same thief returned to the library Tuesday night. The second time he took two typewriters and about $15 in cash.

Several apartment burglaries have also been reported in New Paltz in recent nights, according to Village Police, who indicated that many of the thefts appeared to have been done by the same person or persons.

Investigation of the jewelry store thefts and the other burglaries is continuing.

Emergency Injection For Hard-Hit States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Energy Chief William E. Simon has ordered an "emergency injection" of gasoline for 20 of the hardest-hit states, and he said this would reduce service station lines "within a matter of days."

After meeting with President Nixon at the White House Tuesday, Simon said the extra allocation would increase gasoline supplies by 5 per cent in 10 of the states and 2 per cent in the others.

"The President directed me to find ways to cut down these long lines," Simon said, explaining his order.

Meanwhile, the Senate, after almost two month's delay, Tuesday passed the emergency energy bill which, among other things, would authorize President Nixon to impose national gasoline rationing. Nixon has said he would do that only as a last resort. The bill now goes to the House.

The prospect of rationing, if anything, increased with word from Saudi Arabian Foreign Minister Omar Sakkaf that it may be a long time before the Arab oil embargo against the United States is lifted.

Some 30 per cent of America's normal supply of crude oil is imported, mostly from the Arab countries.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., not content to wait for passage of the emergency legislation, meanwhile, introduced his own bill to make gasoline rationing mandatory within 30 days after approval by both houses.

"Those who demagogue the chant of 'no rationing' fail to understand that people would far prefer rationing to behaving like animals at the gas pump," Weicker said.

Simon said the "emergency injection" of gasoline for 20 states would be made during the remaining days of this month and would reduce service station lines "within a matter of days."

States receiving a 5 per cent increase in gasoline allocations are Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Oregon, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

Those getting 2 per cent more are Connecticut, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Missouri, New York, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island.

Simon said the extra allocation—2 million barrels—will be made by drawing down the estimated 219 million barrel inventory now in producers' storage tanks. Producers keep this inventory as a cushion against future contingencies, such as an expected increase in motoring in the spring and summer. Simon said the reserve is "comfortable" enough to be slightly reduced.

Governors of the 20 states affected will have authority to decide where within their states the extra fuel goes.

The emergency energy bill passed by the Senate would roll back crude oil prices and give the President broad powers to deal with the energy crisis.

But it still faces difficulties in the House.

Even after that, Simon told Republican lawmakers, Nixon will veto the bill because Congress took out parts he wants and put in parts he doesn't like.

John Swahill, deputy director of the Federal Energy Office who was with Simon and the President for 45 minutes on Tuesday, said any decision on rationing should be delayed at least until April 15 to give current allocation plans a chance to work.

"I think we can manage this situation without rationing," he said.

Before receiving his energy directors, Nixon met with two leading Arab foreign ministers —Omar Sakkaf of Saudi Arabia and Ismail Fahmy of Egypt.

Their talks apparently concentrated on getting Syria and Israel to agree on troop disengagement and not on lifting the Arab oil embargo.

But Sakkaf told a news conference later that ending the oil boycott on the United States would be a "long and complicated" affair, dousing hopes of a speedy solution.

N.Y. Gets 2 Per Cent

By The Associated Press

Federal officials have granted New York State a "one-shot deal" of an additional gasoline allocation this month estimated at 8 million gallons — an increase of 2 per cent.

And they hold out promise of more long-term relief from shortages and long gasoline-station lines beginning in March.

But state officials were quick to declare Tuesday that the new increases were "not enough" and that there was still no guarantee that all of the gasoline allocated to the state will actually be delivered.

There was no immediate evidence that the increases quieted the concerns of gasoline station operators, many of whom have been threatening a "pump-out" in protest of federal policies.

The allocation increases for New York and 22 other states were announced in Washington Tuesday by federal energy chief William Simon, who called them "one-shot" relief to areas especially hard-hit by gasoline shortages.

Like the 6 million gallons released from the state's own gasoline "set-asides" last week, the new supplies will be distributed under terms drawn up by the state's Interdepartmental Fuel and Energy Committee.

In its allocations of the 6 million gallons, the IDFEC sent it all to the New York City metropolitan area, the Hudson Valley and the eastern Mohawk Valley.

It was expected to send most of the new supplies to those areas as well, with some of the supplies going to central New York. Gasoline has been relatively plentiful in western New York.

Gerald Turetsky, the regional federal energy chief, said the state's allocation for the month was "estimated" at 410 million gallons, including the 2 per cent increase announced Tuesday.

But other officials in Albany, Washington and Turetsky's own office have cited allocation figures ranging from 259 million gallons to 362 million gallons.

Gov. Malcolm Wilson, who has been insisting for weeks that New York was being shortchanged in the allocation program, declared Tuesday night that the 2 per cent increase was "not enough."

Assembly Speaker Perry Duryea also said the increase was "still not enough gasoline to properly meet the needs of New York State." A spokesman for Duryea said the Assembly would probably move Thursday to approve legislation giving Wilson emergency powers to control the use and distribution of all forms of energy in the state.

Gasoline dealers in the Southern Tier, downstate New York, the Syracuse area and Jefferson and Monroe counties have indicated support for a deliberate exhaustion of their fuel supplies to protest federal energy policies and allocations.

The increased allocations announced Tuesday went part way to meet one of the dealers' greivances—too little gasoline.

But the dealers were also protesting a federal mandate that they stop giving preferential treatment to regular customers—an order unaffected by Tuesday's announcements in Washington.

Distribution May Start Friday

Hearst Setting Up Food Program

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — Newspaper magnate Randolph A. Hearst says he hopes the $2 million food distribution program prompted by demands from his daughter's kidnapers can get rolling Friday and bring about her freedom.

Work on setting up the program gets under way today.

"I don't know what to expect. I only hope at this point," Hearst told reporters Tuesday at his home.

"With the $2 million, we can feed 100,000 people a month for 12 months," Hearst said in describing his "Peoples In Need" program. "And it's possible for it to become an ongoing program' 'for feeding California's poor.

Hearst said the program would be patterned after Washington State's "Neighbors in Need" program, which has distributed tons of food to the poor and needy since heavy cutbacks at Seattle's Boeing Co. brought an unemployment crisis to that state in 1970.

Secretary of State A. Ludlow Kramer of Washington was named to administer the Hearst program.

The Symbionese Liberation Army claims reponsibility for abducting Hearst's daughter Patricia from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4. As a precondition for negotiating her release, the group later demanded a food giveaway by Tuesday for California's needy. Miss Hearst turns 20 today.

"The hope I have is that we'll hear from them and they'll release my daughter," declared Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the Hearst Corp.

He said the program was financed by $500,000 of his money and $1.5 million from one of his family's foundations.

The newspaper executive said he decided to use the Washington-style program after being approached earlier Tuesday by Kramer and Peggy Mae, director of "Neighbors In Need."

Kramer, who said the Washington program has contributed $5 million in food to some three million people, said he would start lining up trucks and food outlets today.

Kramer called for 1,000 volunteers to get the first food out by Friday and an entire distribution network set up in two weeks.

Kramer said the program will be designed to work "with any group that says there is a need for food to be distributed in their community. We don't have time for standards. We want to feed people."

Stop $100,000 Extortion Try

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An unemployed Indiana cab driver and his wife tried to extort $100,000 from Randolph Hearst by posing as the kidnapers of his daughter Patricia, police said Tuesday.

The couple had no connection with the kidnaping and they were arrested by police and FBI agents when they tried to collect the ransom at a drop in a bus station, officers said.

Formal complaints were to ber sought today against Nile Dwayne Marx, 43, and his wife Shirley Ann, 21, on a state charge of representing themselves to be kidnapers, which carries a penalty of 5 years to life in prison.

The Marxes made several telephone calls to the Hearst home in Hillsborough, Calif., beginning last Thursday, at least once talking to the kidnaped girl's mother, Catherine, said detective Lt. Charles Higbie.

They were broke and living at a downtown Los Angeles hotel, he said. They demanded a $100,000 ransom be left at a drop in the Continental Trailways bus station in downtown Los Angeles, Higbie said.

The drop point was watched and the Marxes were arrested without resistance when they appeared to collect the ransom early Sunday, he said. There was no money involved, he said.

SAVE THAT FUEL — Joseph B. Clarke (L), and Wayne R. Lamon, employed by Walter Davenport Sons Inc., practice new oil burner techniques they learned at a recent Efficiency Seminar for domestic oil burner repairmen held at the Stone Ridge Campus of Ulster County Community College. The Office of Continuing Education sponsored the program to help repairmen update their skills during this period of short fuel supplies.

Ulster Men Survive Airplane Crash

NEWBURGH — Two Ulster County men discovered Tuesday night that when an airplane runs out of fuel it is a far more dangerous and harrowing experience than having a car run out of gas. You can't just pull to the side of the road.

The men somehow escaped uninjured, however, when their single-engine plane crashed in a wooded area near Stewart Airport after the fuel in the Cessna 172 dwindled away during repeated attempts to land in a heavy rain with poor visibility.

The plane, piloted by Wayne Lawrence, 34, of Accord, with Joseph Friedman, 40, of 9 Clair Court, Ellenville, as a passenger, was en route from Tri-Cities Airport in Bristol, Tenn., to Orange County Airport in Montgomery when the crash occurred at about 8 p.m.

Newburgh State Police said Lawrence first attempted to bring the small plane down at Orange County Airport, but was unable to see the field due to the poor weather conditions.

With the plane's fuel gauge approaching empty, Lawrence turned toward nearby Stewart Airport, about six miles away, but was again thwarted on his first landing pass over the field due to the bad visibility.

During the plane's second attempt at landing at the airfield outside Newburgh, it ran out of fuel and dropped to the ground.

The single-engine Cessna came down in a wooded area owned by the Metropolitan Transporation Authority in the Town of Montgomery.

The plane was extensively damaged, state police said, but Lawrence and Friedman, an Ellenville attorney, somehow came through unscathed.

Lawrence had returned to the crash scene today — about three miles from Stewart Airport — to look over the wreckage of the small plane.

Nuclear Plant To Be Subject Of Paltz Meeting

NEW PALTZ — The League of Women Voters of New Paltz will sponsor a public meeting at which both sides of the controversy over the proposed Lloyd nuclear power plant will be represented Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Inter-County Savings Bank in New Paltz.

Representatives from the State Atomic and Space Development Authority will present their view, with Ned Lehac and Alan Harkavy of the Hudson Valley Citizens Watch on Nuclear safety speaking in opposition.

Each side will have 30 minutes to its statement, with a question and answer period to follow. Refreshments will be served at the end of the meeting.

Rondout Board Oks Price Hikes

By CARL GRAHAM

KYSERIKE — The Rondout Valley School District will pay above contracted prices for milk and paper products for the remainder of the fiscal year, beginning March 1.

The Board of Education voted Tuesday night to accede to the requests of Fordmore Farms Dairy, which supplies milk for the district's lunches, and E. A. Morse Co., which contracted to furnish paper products, after they asked for reconsideration of their bids because they were faced with unexpected price rises. There were no escalator clauses in their contracts with the district.

The board's decision drew strong opposition from Carl Grassi, who asked: "Why do we go out for bids? If prices go down, do you think they will lower their prices? If we do it (grant price increases) we shouldn't bother going out for bids."

Lee Comeau, business administrator, said the increases would cost the district $1,400 to $1,500. They include an increase of .0123 for a half pint of milk and increases of from 3 to 29 per cent in various paper products.

Comeau said the suppliers had been trying to hold the line, "but they have costs they couldn't have anticipated when bids went out last June."

Robert Robertaccio, superintendent of schools, said it was the first time either firm had asked for an increase. "I personally feel it shows tremendous integrity on their part to come forward and state their problems."

"I disagree," Grassi replied. "The point is, it's a one-way street. We are only binding ourselves with a contract."

Mrs. Kay Wagenfohr suggested that the resolution to grant the price increases be amended so that the district could write adjustment clauses into future contracts to take care of both price increases and decreases. The motion passed 5-2, with Morris Felsen joining Grassi in opposition and Wayne Kelder, Julian Bartle, Mrs. Ann Coler and Thomas Davenport joining Mrs. Wagenfohr in the majority.

Grassi also objected to a proposal to have the district contract for computerized school bus scheduling with BOCES, but was outvoted 6-1.

Comeau said the BOCES service would be available for 50 cents per pupil for the first 2,000 and 35 cents for all over the figure. Total cost would be between $1,400 and $1,500, with 60 per cent state aid reducing the net cost to approximately $960, he told board members.

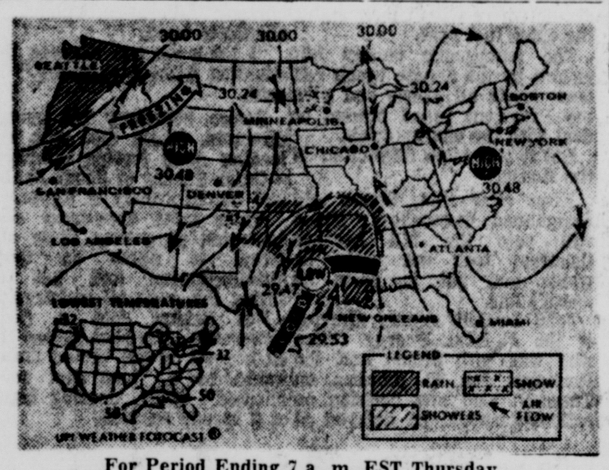

Comeau said that the New Paltz school district, the first in this area to contract for the computerized service, had reduced busing costs by 33 per cent two years after beginning the service.

John Basten, district clerk, called the $960 "not a bad investment to see how we are doing with our transportation. If we can save a couple of bus routes it would repay us."

Grassi called the BOCES service "a foot in the door. First they take over scheduling and then they take over all bus service."

The board set May 7 for the annual meeting and May 8 for the school district voting. The last day to register for voting will be April 24, with registration open at all elementary schools in the district on school days until then and with extra registration days set for Saturday, April 6, district residents may register at any elementary school from 9 a.m. to noon. Extra registration will also be conducted between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Monday, April 22, and Tuesday, April 23, at all elementary schools.

Informational meetings will be held on Tuesday, April 23, at the Accord Elementary School, and Thursday, April 25, at the Marbletown Elementary School, both beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Public Sessions Over for Senate Watergate Committee

WASHINGTON (U P I) — Never recapturing the spotlight it held last summer, the Senate Watergate committee apparently is nearing the end of its existence.

The committee voted 6-1 Monday to end the public hearings that began last May 17 in the dazzle of national television.

Its staff will appeal a ruling by U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell denying the committee access to President Nixon's Watergate tape recordings, and will work on the final report due May 28.

The staff also will continue private investigation of some matters that were supposed to have been the subject of additional hearings — possible connections between the Nixon administration and billionaire Howard Hughes, contributions from milk producers and possible CIA involvement in the Watergate break-in.

Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Tuesday held open the "small possibility" that hearings might be resumed if new developments warrant. This appeared doubtful.

"The committee believes it should be careful not to interfere unduly with the ongoing impeachment process in the House Judiciary Committee or the criminal cases which will soon be prosecuted by the special prosecutor, on which the attention of the country appears now to be focused," Ervin said in a statement.

The committee, established by unanimous vote of the Senate, began hearings eleven months after the break-in at the Democratic national offices in the Watergate complex and was the center of national attention as it heard witnesses such as former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans—whose trial on another matter opened in New York this week—and former White House aides H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III.

But after the first round of hearings ended in August, the work of the Watergate Special Prosecution Force pushed the committee out of the headlines.

Several other things occurred to prevent the committee from regaining its momentum:

—One witness, White House speechwriter Patrick J. Buchanan, appeared to some to get the better of committee questioners, and enthusiasm for the hearings declined among some Democrats who feared a repeat.

—Republican members of the committee were unable to provide much evidence about Democratic espionage and dirty tricks. This brought an end in October to the second round of hearings.

—A much bigger factor was the committee's inability to get access to the Nixon tapes, existence of which had been revealed in testimony before the committee in July by Federal Aviation Administrator Alexander P. Butterfield, former White House director of administration.

Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica as well as Gesell both turned down the committee's requests for tapes. The committee failed to get not only the five crucial Nixon-Dean conversations it had subpoenaed immediately but the 500 tapes and documents it had subpoenaed in December.

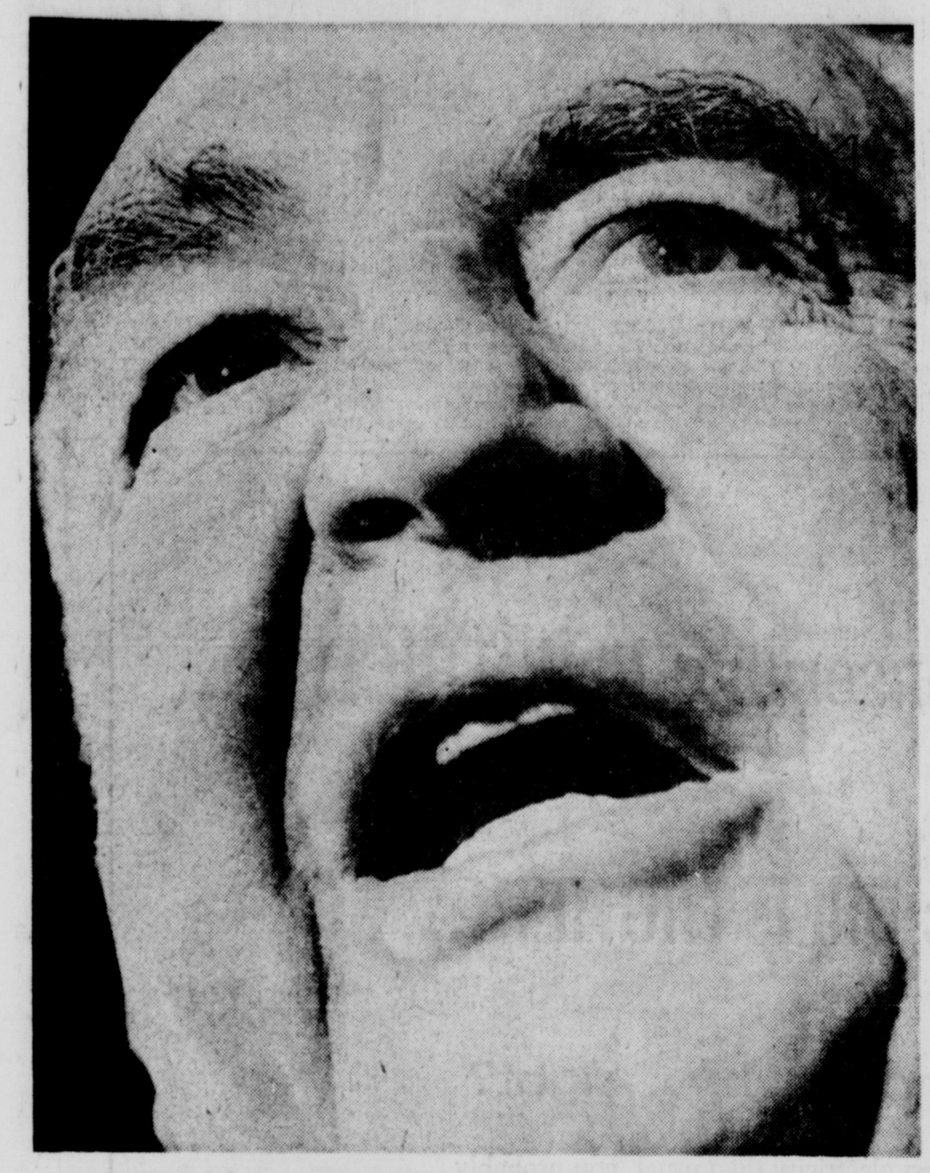

Without these tapes, the committee was frustrated in its attempt to get information it needed for a tough, open probe of Nixon's relations with Hughes and the milk producers.

Meanwhile, Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox and his successor Leon Jaworski successfully subpoenaed the tapes, got pleas of guilty from several White House aides, and promised new indictments by the end of February.

In a related development, Sirica Tuesday summoned Jaworski and Chief White House Watergate lawyer James St. Clair to his chambers to admonish them that "continued public comment" about the grand jury investigation of gaps in the White House tapes is "inappropriate" and hindering the investigation.

"The simple fact is that public discussion now of matters comprising the current investigatory work of a grand jury can do nothing but hinder that investigation," Sirica said in a statement.

Later, Sirica summoned the third Watergate grand jury, which has been investigating, among other things, the 18½ minute gap on Nixon's June 20, 1972, conversation with Haldeman, and admonished the jurors to disregard press comments.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY CHAIRMAN — Senator Sam Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.), chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, said that the panel will hold no more publiic hearings. The committee voted to conclude privately its investigations involving Howard Hughes, the CIA and campaign funds from milk producers. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Mitchell, Stans Lawyers Expect New Indictments

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawyers for John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans say they expect the swearing-in of a jury for the conspiracy trial of the two former cabinet members to trigger new Watergate indictments, naming one or both of the defendants.

The attorneys indicated prior to the trial's opening Tuesday that Federal Judge Lee P. Gagliardis' decision to sequester the jury would clear the way for new criminal action in Washington once the panel is sworn in and sent into isolation.

Mitchell, 60, former attorney general, and Stans, 65, ex-commerce secretary, were indicted in the aftermath of a secret $200,000 contribution to President Nixons' re-election campaign. It later was returned. At the time, Mitchell was campaign director and Stans chief fund raiser.

The government charged that the money was paid April 10, 1972, by financier Robert L. Vesco, 37, in return for intervention on his behalf by Mitchell and Stans in a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of his corporate affairs. Vesco eventually was charged in an SEC civil suit with looting his financial empire of $224 million in stockholders' money.

Vesco was indicted with Mitchell and Stans on charges of conspiring to defraud the SEC and obstruction of federal justice. He alternately has taken refuge in Costa Rica or the Bahamas, and all efforts to bring him back for trial have failed.

Arguing prior to the trial's opening Tuesday, a lawyer for Stans, John Diuguid, said of special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski:

"The special prosecutor indicated many more indictments are coming down in Washington in the Watergate case."

Diuguid said Jaworski indicated he is waiting until a jury for the Vesco case is sequestered, a signal to the defense that Stans or Mitchell or both may be among the targets.

"I have not reached the conclusion that you must be sequestered lightly, but after serious consideration," Gagliardi told prospective jurors. He mentioned only the expected wide publicity on the trial.

A jury in isolation when outside Gagliardi's courtroom would be unlikely to learn of further government action against the defendants. Thus the government could proceed with a new prosecution without prejudicing its case here.

Diuguid's argument was in behalf of a renewed defense motion to dismiss the case, or move the trial outside New York City because of prejudicial pretrial publicity. Gagliardi took the petition under advisement, saying the test could come only during an actual attempt to select a jury.

Worried GOP Leaders Meet With Nixon

WASHINGTON (U P I) — Watergate, along with the energy crisis and the economy, are to be laid before President Nixon as key issues the GOP must deal with in upcoming congressional elections.

Vice President Gerald R. Ford, "shocked and dismayed" at the defeat of the Republican candidate for his old House seat in Michigan, was scheduled to meet with Nixon today to discuss the forthcoming congressional elections. He will be joined by GOP congressional leaders.

"I will tell him," Ford said Tuesday evening, "that Watergate was an issue, but underlying problems were the economy and the energy crisis."

Ford, attending a reception for members of the diplomatic corps at Blair House, also said the Democrats "used the Watergate issue very successfully."

On Tuesday, Nixon indicated he was already aware 1974 is a difficult year for the GOP.

He entertained about 150 ethnic leaders —most of them supporters of his 1972 campaign —at the White House and told them "right now" it looks like 1974 will be "a rough year" for Republicans. But he said it "won't be as bad for the party" by the time the November elections come.

House Republican leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona said he was sure Monday's election in Michigan, in which Democrat Richard Vander Veen captured a seat held by the Republicans for 62 years, "would come up" at today's meeting between Nixon and congressional leaders.

"Watergate undoubtedly had something to do with it (the GOP loss)," Rhodes said. "I don't think you can discount it at all."

Rhodes also said he was apprehensive about other special elections coming up soon in Ohio, California and Michigan.

But, he said, "there's a long time between now and November" when the general congressional elections are held.

"We hope Watergate is behind us," Rhodes said.

Banks Drop Prime Rate

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most of the nation's major banks dropped their prime interest rate from 9¼ to 9 per cent Tuesday, indicating the Federal Reserve Board may be letting up somewhat on its strict monetary policy.

The prime rate reached an all-time high of 10 per cent last October and again in December before declining last month.

It will be some months, however, before lower interest rates extend to the smaller individual and mortgage loans made by banks, as prime rates are applicable only to large loans, usually taken by corporations.

Assembly Votes Discrimination Ban

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Assembly has voted overwhelmingly to forbid banks and other institutions to discriminate against woman in making loans.

The Assembly voted 128-2 Tuesday to approve a bill making it unlawful for any lending institution to take sex, marital status or "childbearing potential" into account when reviewing a credit application.

Sponsors said the measure, which now goes to the Senate, would make it easier for single and divorced women to obtain credit cards and loans. It would also help married couples who want to count the wife's earnings in applying for a mortgage, they said.

In other Capitol developments Tuesday:

—Gov. Malcolm Wilson signed a bill that repeals the controversial corroboration requirements which have made rape one of the most difficult crimes for which to obtain convictions. The evidence in rape cases will now be treated the same as in other violent crimes.

—The Senate gave final legislative approval to a bill that would forbid school buses to use unguarded railroad crossings except when no other route is available.

—The Senate approved and sent to the Assembly a bill that would authorize the state Consumer Protection Board to argue on behalf of the public in utility rate cases before the Public Service Commission.

—The Assembly approved a bill requiring that octane ratings for gasoline be posted "clearly and conspicuously" at service stations.

—Amid a chorus of bird calls and whistles, the Assembly defeated a bill that would have added mourning doves to the list of birds which can be hunted in the state.

The banking discrimination bill was sponsored by Assemblyman Lucio Russo, R-Staten Island, chairman of the Banks Committee and normally an ally of banking interests.

"The banks say they don't discriminate," Russo declared. "Well, the evidence is overwhelming that they do."

At public hearings on the bill last year, Russo showed particular anger at testimony that some banks had required wives to sign pledges to take birth-control measures before granting a mortgage.

The bill forbids "any inquiry" about birth control.

Banks which violate the law could be subject to fines of up to $10,000, in addition to compensatory awards payable to the victims of discrimination.

At hearings on the bill in October before Russo's all-male committee, the assemblymen listened incredulously as a string of women testified about their experiences with banks.

One said she had a good credit rating but had to get her debt-ridden boyfriend to cosign her application in order to get a loan.

Several said banks refused to consider the wife's income when a couple applied for a mortgage. A divorced woman said she couldn't get credit even though her ex-husband, who made less than she did, could.

STUDENTS IN EXILE — Members of Concordia Seminary student body board up pedestrian archway in St. Louis, Mo., Tuesday. Letters on boards spell "EXILED." The student body voted overwhelmingly to join fired faculty and staff members and begin a seminary in exile. Move climaxed a one-month student-faculty boycott that has virtually closed down the nation's largest Lutheran seminary since suspension of seminary's president, the Rev. Dr. John Tietjen. Tietjen favors literal interpretation of the Bible. (UPI)

Court to Rule on Divorce Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has agreed to decide whether it is constitutional for states to impose a one-year residency requirement before a married couple can seek a divorce.

At issue is a lower court ruling upholding Iowa's one-year provision. The case will be argued next fall or winter with a written opinion to follow.

A similar case has been appealed from Rhode Island where a three-judge panel struck down that state's two year residency requirement as unconstitutional. The Supreme Court did not indicate today whether the Rhode Island appeal would be accepted for review.

The court also:

—Agreed to rule on the constitutionality of a Louisiana statute that excludes women from jury duty unless they formally declare they wish to serve. Two convicted men claimed the exclusion violated their right to a fair trial.

—Let stand a lower court decision that held that former Cook County State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan and seven Chicago policemen should stand trial for violating the federal civil rights law in the 1969 raid which resulted in the death of Black Panther leader Fred Hampton and a colleague.

— Decded to review a Georgia law that prohibits using the names of rape victims in news stories or broadcasts.

—Agreed to rule in an Ohio case whether the rights of public school students are violated if they are suspended without being first allowed to present their case at an informal hearing.

—Agreed to hear an appeal by the Navy from a lower court ruling that the service unconstitutionally favors women officers in connection with promotions and dismissals.

—Let stand a California Supreme Court decision that declared that children whose parents are living together in another home are entitled to welfare benefits.

—Declined to review an Indiana Supreme Court finding that police are prohibited from obtaining search warrants that compel a suspect to undergo surgery for such evidence as bullet fragments.

The Iowa one-year residence divorce requirement was upheld 2 to 1 by a special three-judge federal panel in Cedar Rapids July 16.

The suit was filed by Carol Maureen Sosna of Green Island, a former resident of New York, who wanted to divorce her husband, Michael Sosna. They had married Sept. 5, 1964, in Michigan.

District Judge A. L. Keck of Jackson County Court dismissed the petition on the ground that Mrs. Sosna had not lived in the state a year. She then sued in federal court to get the law declared unconstitutional.

The two-man majority noted that the Supreme Court has struck down residency requirements for welfare and voting but it said "the concept of divorce is not a constitutional right, nor is it a basic necessity to survival."

"Divorce is wholly a creature of statute, with the absolute power to prescribe the conditions relative thereto being vested in the state," it said.

Sheriff Answers Charge

KINGSTON — Ulster County Sheriff William B. Martin has taken County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago to task for criticism leveled against Martin at last Thursday's meeting of the Legislature.

At the meeting, Savago objected to the acceptance of some 30 Rockland County prisoners in the Ulster County Jail before the Legislature approved a contract authorizing the move.

Martin explained that he received a court order to accept the prisoners from the Rockland County Jail, which is undergoing repairs for damage received in a recent prisoner uprising.

Martin said that after receiving the court order, "If I had refused to accept the prisoners while waiting for the legislature to act, I could have been removed from office for malfeasance or nonfeasance of duty."

"I didn't want that to happen," Martin added.

Martin said he spoke to Savago concerning the situation after the meeting, and was told that the Legislature Chairman had not been aware that a court order had been issued. Savago, according to Martin, has agreed to correctly explain the situation at the next meeting of the Ulster County Legislature.

At last Thursday's meeting, the legislature passed a resolution authorizing the county to house the prisoners in the jail for $16 a day.

The resolution passed 30-3, with Savago voting for it despite his objections to the fact that the prisoners were moved into the jail before the resolution was passed.

Area Blue Laws Survey Scheduled

KINGSTON — The Ulster Business and Professional Association will conduct a detailed survey of its members to determine their feelings on legislation proposed by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell to repeal the state's "Blue Laws."

Orvil Norman was named chairman of the committee that will conduct the study and draw up a report on the UBPA position.

At a seminar held Feb. 7 at the Holiday Inn, Robert R. Regan, UBPA president, said that approximately 80 per cent of the group's members were opposed to Bell's legislation calling for repeal. At the UBPA meeting Tuesday night in the Bonanza branch of Heritage Savings Bank members voted for a thorough and detailed study of members' attitudes and specific recommendations for a course of action. Norman will work with officers and the Board of Directors in preparing the report based on the survey.

UBPA also voted to invite the presidents of the nine other business and professional organizations represented at the Feb. 7 meeting to get together to discuss possible joint action on the Blue Law issue.

Saturday, April 13, was set as the date for the annual dinner dance, to be held this year at Holiday Inn. Joseph Cornelske will serve as chairman for the affair, with Ben Magaldino as co-chairman.

Group Hears Assistant DA

NEW PALTZ — First Assistant District Attorney Ellen Donovan was the featured speaker Monday in the third of four crime prevention programs being sponsored by Ulster County Chapter 975, American Association of Retired Persons.

Ms. Donovan warned AARP members to be on guard against contracting for home appliance or car repairs with other than reputable contractors or servicemen and advised them to be on guard against telephone solicitors pretending to be bank auditors. She also showed a film, "On Guard — Bunco," which was introduced by Bernard E. Nash, executive director of AARP and the National Retired Teachers Association.

The final program in the crime prevention series will be held Monday, Feb. 25, at the Inter-County Savings Bank in New Paltz, with registration beginning at 1 p.m. The topic will be police-community relations and the speakers will be Theodore Dietz, professor of police science at Ulster County Community College, and John F. Taylor, director of public safety for the Town of New Paltz. All senior citizens in the area as well as AARP members are invited to attend.

You've been conserving ELECTRICITY...

Your Electric Bill is HIGHER...

...You want to know why...right?

If you have been using less electricity than usual, you probably expected your bill to be lower. But it wasn't... it was higher.

Actually, our rates are the same now as they were three years ago. Based on these rates, when you use less electricity, we charge you less. Then why was your bill higher? Because there is an additional charge on your bill which reflects the much higher price we are paying for residual oil — the fuel we use to generate your electricity.

For instance, we paid less than $2.00 per barrel for residual oil during 1972, as shown on the chart. This favorable price — well below the market price — resulted in considerable savings for all of our customers.

In 1973, the market price began to climb. While many electric companies paid increasingly higher prices for their fuel oil and passed those higher costs on to their customers, we were able to maintain our purchase price under the $2.00 level. Once again, our customers benefited.

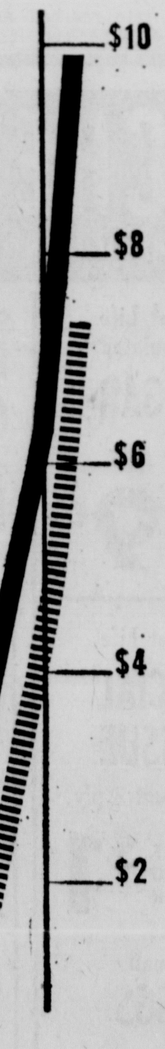

By the end of 1973, however, both the market price and our purchase price jumped drastically. In fact, during January of this year we paid $7.32 per barrel, an increase of approximately 270 percent over the price we paid through most of 1973.

What caused the higher prices? Actions by certain oil-exporting countries in raising their prices had a great impact. The price differential between the cost of oil to our supplier and the price we were paying for the oil had been increasing steadily. Because of the widening price differential it became apparent that we would have to take steps to make sure our supply would not be cut off.

Accordingly, we renegotiated our supply contract to provide for prices more nearly in line with current market prices. While our purchase price has increased materially, we now have greater assurance that oil will continue to be available to us, and that we will have the fuel needed to generate electricity for our customers.

While no one likes to pay more for any service, we'd like to point out that the impact of higher fuel prices on our customers is less than on most electric customers in the State. One utility in the State, for example, paid an average of $15.50 per barrel in January

One more thing — we are not making a profit on higher fuel prices. The higher price of residual oil is being passed on to our customers without any markup.

Mrs. Kobran Earns National Volunteer Award Citation

KINGSTON

Mrs. Shirley S. Kobran of the Town of Ulster, who has been active as a leader of environmental groups in Ulster County, will receive a 1973 National Volunteer Award citation—one of only 60 given in the nation—at a meeting of the League of Women Voters of Kingston Feb. 25.

Mrs. Kobran, who was a founder and chairman of the Ulster County Environmental Task Force, was named last year by the County Legislature as the chairman of the newly formed Environmental Management Council.

The Kingston League of Women Voters nominated Mrs. Kobran for the award, sponsored by the National Center for Voluntary Action, because of her work in fostering environmental protection.

Mrs. Kobran also has been active in numerous other community projects and organizations in Ulster County.

In receiving one of the 60 citations presented to groups and individuals across the country, Mrs. Kobran becomes eligible to be a finalist for the 1973 National Volunteer Award. Winners of the final awards will be announced in April.

The National Center for Voluntary Action was established in 1970 to stimulate and support the voluntary movement. President Nixon serves as the Center's honorary chairman.

George Romney, chairman of the center, wrote Mrs. Kobran to congratulate her on receiving the citation. "We at the National Center for Voluntary Action continue to work in many ways to recognize and publicize outstanding efforts such as your own," Romney said.

The award will be presented to Mrs. Kobran by the League of Women Voters, which will hold its annual meeting at noon on Feb. 25 in the YWCA board room, 209 Clinton Avenue.

At the luncheon meeting, the league will also hear reports on a recently begun study of pretrial procedures.

The Hearst Kidnaping

Every mother and father can feel the agony and the hurt that must be in the hearts of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph A. Hearst, parents of kidnaped 19-year-old Patricia.

The pain becomes all the more accentuated because of the feeling of helplessness as we stand by and watch the tragedy unfold.

The kidnapers finally have outlined their demands.

They are asking for millions of dollars worth of food for the poor as evidence of good faith in negotiating for the release of the teen-ager.

It is significant that the message from the kidnapers did not say that the girl would be freed but rather that meeting their demands would merely initiate negotiations, leading to the logical conclusion that there could be further demands.

The kidnapers call themselves a liberation army but they are in truth the most contemptible and dastardly form of criminals Their scheme is the product of crazed minds.

Their price for negotiations is $70 worth of food to California's poor. This would include all people with welfare cards, social security pensions, food stamp cards, medical cards, disabled veteran cards, parole or probation papers and jail or bail release slips.

It has been estimated that the cost would be in excess of $400 million.

One does not equate the value of a human life in terms of dollars but the enormity of the demand is frightening. Mr. Hearst is a wealthy publisher but even he does not have the resources to comply with this degree of extortion. And the next question is where does it stop?

Considering the ordeal she is undergoing, Patricia Hearst sounded remarkably calm and lucid in her tape-recorded message to her parents. Whether the message was made with a gun at her head is not known. But it is evident from her words that she believes the kidnapers are not bluffing.

In fact, if the words and thoughts are her own and not the product of duress, it appears that either she has been brain-washed or that in the period of terrifying captivity she has developed a rapport with her captors.

She called herself a prisoner of war. Miss Hearst told her parents that she was being held by an armed "combat unit" engaged in a struggle for independence in a war with the ruling class.

She definitely is a prisoner of war but not the kind of war she seems to imply. This is a war of anarchists against our very basic social structure. If the criminals gain even an initial victory it can lead only to catastrophe.

It also is a war of nerves in which millions of compassionate Americans are saddened bystanders. Obviously the FBI and other police authorities are working desperately to break the case. The rest of us can do little except pray and hope for their success.

If Hazardous — Refunds

The Consumer Product Safety Commission's new rules calling for refunds on products banned as hazardous will bring two notably beneficial results. The consumer will henceforth have more prompt and effective recourse in dealing with the sellers of such products. The manufacturers, doubtless with some nudging from wholesalers and retailers, seem sure to give increased weight than in the past to consumer safety considerations.

This outgrowth of federal legislation enacted in 1970 has been a long time coming. Four years have passed in disputations talk among public interest groups, wholesalers and retailers. But now at last we have (as of March 6) a system whereby consumers will be informed when a toy or other product has been banned by the commission, and will then have opportunity to get their money back if they have bought the product.

In the first instance, manufacturers must notify wholesalers and retailers when a product has been banned. Notice of this, plus information on refund procedures, must then be posted throughout stores where the item has been offered for sale. The system sounds like a workable means of implementing the purpose of the Toy Safety and Child Protection Act.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

More Secret Contributions Bared

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Secret documents from the 1972 Nixon presidential campaign, including a mysterious list of donors code-named "Alpha Four," show new discrepancies and unreported contributions of at least $1 million.

There are indications the total may eventually reach millions more. This is all in addition to the $60.2 million in contributions finally admitted by Nixon fund-raisers last September under heavy pressure from Common Cause.

Buried in that whopping kitty was a $10,000 gift collected from a pair of Miami businessmen by the President's crony, banker Bebe Rebozo. The partners in Atlantic Investors of Miami, Jay I. Kislak and Alec Courtelis, gave the money to Rebozo hoping he would tell the President about it.

"If you're going to make a contribution," Kislak told us candidly, "you want to get as close to the guy as you can get, don't you?"

As far as we can determine, Rebozo turned the money over to the campaign without belaboring President Nixon about it.

In previous cases, as we have reported, Rebozo collected $100,000 from Howard Hughes and $10,000 from the Davis brothers, who founded the Winn-Dixie supermarket chain.

The new $1 million discrepancy was turned up by investigators for Common Cause. The citizens' lobby got some of its information, we have discovered, by threatening to serve a subpoena on Rose Mary Woods, the President's secretary.

Under this pressure, the White House turned over her list of secret contributors to Common Cause. The citizens' group also has winnowed data from sealed depositions of Rebozo, Nixon lawyer Herb Kalmbach and others.

Finally, they have obtaind a alphabetized four-column list titled "Alpha Four," containing contributors' names and financial work papers of the Nixon re-election committee.

Besides this curiously unaccounted for $1 million, the Common Cause sleuths believe many millions more in donations remain unreported, but they lack documents to back it up.

There is evidence, for instance, that huge sums were pledged to the Nixon campaign and secretly paid into state committees to avoid federal accounting. One committee was set up under the Republican National Committee's umbrella, but money was funneled out of it for White House uses, the sleuths found.

Large amounts were also "contributed in kind" in the form of airline tickets, rent-a-cars, credit card charges and the like.

FOOTNOTE: Common Cause lawyers Mitch Rogovin and Ken Guido, who pried loose most of the new data, refused comment except to say new court action is planned soon. Lawyers for the Nixon fund-raisers did not return our calls.

ROLLING OVER THE HANDICAPPED: An American company, which has cornered a dominant share of the world market in wheelchairs, has been accused of rolling up $16 million a year in sales at the expense of this country's handicapped.

In a still confidential draft report, the Center for Concerned Engineering charges that Everest and Jennings International is selling virtuallly the same wheelchairs in America for $495 that it markets in Great Britain for $135. The group rated the British chair as being better, since it is equipped with pneumatic front tires.

In West Germany, E & J is faced with small innovative competitors. The center's engineers said E & J markets many types of advanced machines in Germany to meet this challenge and includes such options as luggage racks, which are not available here.

Ralf Hotchkiss, director of the engineering center, said he made an international tour checking the availability of wheelchairs and found that the handicapped in other countries fare better than Americans, both in price and in design.

During his investigative trip to England, Hotchkiss said he visited the largest E & J distributor and placed an order for 10 wheelchairs.

"We went through all the paperwork and then the salesman asked where I wanted the wheelchairs shipped." Hotchkiss said. "I gave him my American address and he told me he was not allowed to ship the cheaper chairs to the United States."

He said E & J enforced a similar policy in Germany, where the broad range of models is particularly attractive to handicapped Americans.

The biggest unfulfilled need in a different business matter in wheelchairs, the center's draft concluded, is to make them narrow enough to carry their passengers through bathroom doors.

Citing a recent study which shows that most U.S. wheelchairs are more than two feet wide, the center noted, "The average bathroom door in both private homes and public facilities is less than 24½ inches" — too narrow for wheelchairs.

The center contended, however, that there is considerable date showing that "60 per cent of adults can fit comfortably into chairs 20 inches wide or less."

Our investigation shows that the top three E & J officers, all member of the Jennings family, collected more than $500,000 a year in salaries, dividends and other benefits—not including a generous retirement plan.

E & J's American competitiors, the engineering center said, are content to sell virtually the same models as E & J, at virtually the same prices.

In Los Angeles, a spokesman for E & J firmly defended his company, saying wheelchairs are fairly priced from $105 to about $1,000 for special, powered models. The company has constantly improved its American product, he said, and profits were not high.

O'NEAL'S SIDE: In December, we told how former Rep. Maston O'Neal, D-Ga., contacted his old House colleague, Small Business Administrator Thomas Kleppe, about a contract for O'Neal's son-in-law. O'Neal declined to return our call at the time. Now, he has assured us he did not contact Kleppe on the contract, but on a different business matter concerning his son-in-law. O'Neal denies he tried to influence Kleppe or that he has any financial stake in his son-in-law's firm.

Inside Report

Conservatives Strike Out

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Although the meeting last Wednesday evening (Feb. 6) between President Nixon and 21 conservative House Republicans opened with applause for Mr. Nixon and ended with handshakes, these amenities were merely veneer for seething anti-Nixon sentiment by the entire conservative Republican establishment.

In fact, the 90-minute Cabinet Room session with the informal Steering Group of hard-line conservatives in the House never did come to real grips with what one conservative labeled "the Nixon sellout" of their position on issue after issue.

That sellout, conservatives agree, has its source in Watergate and the conviction that the President's new budget is designed to appease the main force of his enemy: liberals of both parties.

Rep. Edward Derwinski of Illinois, leader of the Steering Group, told us after the session that the President was politely warned he "could not placate his liberal critics with this new deficit budget and program."

"He is capitulating to the wrong people at the wrong time on the wrong issues," Derwinski said. "There is still a silent majority but the President forgot that fact."

The reason Derwinski went to the White Houe with the ideological hard core of Republican conservatives was to stiffen the President's back against liberal programs which, in earlier Nixon years, would have been automatically vetoed. Their message: Mr. President, don't underestimate conservative votes in the House in deciding whether to veto; we promise you the same backing to sustain vetoes this year as last.

Thus, Derwinski produced for the President tally sheets of House votes to override presidential vetoes in 1973 showing that the 21 conservatives cast a cumulative total of 110 votes to sustain last year's six vetoes, with only 10 cumulative votes to override (and 6 abstentions).

The conservatives fear that Mr. Nixon will be frightened out of vetoes because of his dangerously weakened political position. What's more, this retreat would come on top of his new deficit budget (nearly $10 billion in the red), his medical care program, his public service employment program, and, most important, his return to a liberalized, family assistance cash payments plan.

For all the amenities at the White House, the conservatives received no commitments on four specific issues.

They asked the President, first, to solicit Republican backing for an anti-busing constitutional amendment. Mr. Nixon's reply posed a dubious thesis: My four appointees to the Supreme Court are the best guarantee on the busing issue.

The other three issues, each a flaming red flag to conservatism: long-term federal subsidies for mass transit operating costs; the proposed legal services corporation; a pending Democratic-sponsored bill backed by environmentalists which would establish federal limits on uncontrolled use of lands.

The President listened respectfully, indicating sympathy but avoiding commitment. Moreover, several felt he personally had not begun to count noses on forthcoming House votes, because of impeachment distractions.

More important, the conservatives felt that in his political agony Mr. Nixon has given up defending against vast spending programs likely to be enacted by the Democratic Congress. They see him using the threat of recession as an obvious pretext for federal pump-priming.

The session broke up without overt ill-feeling: no blows struck, no harsh criticisms uttered. But as an effort to tweak the President's conscience on what conservatives regard as his surrender of principle, it proved in the words of a participant, only that "he has thrown in the sponge and he doesn't even care."

That feeling is shared by some presidential intimates within the very bowels of the White House. What disturbs them is that, with the possible exception of the health plan, the new budget includes no special help for the blue-collar working man, successfully courted by Mr. Nixon during his first term but now alienated from him by Watergate.

"All this Moynihan Mickey Mouse," grumbled one such aide. "It's cash for the poor but nothing for our own new voters." He wants not pump-priming on new welfare programs but a fat tax cut for the blue-collar working class, if Mr. Nixon is all that frightened by incipient recession.

But that would make political sense, a commodity which, in the unanimous view of the whole conservative establishment, cannot be found today at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

Jealous Streak in All of Us

Jealousy is a more popular emotion than love. Deep affection must be hunted, found and kept alive by giving. Conversely, jealousy grows unbidden in the mind, like a dwarf cancer. It is present before we realize it, and no power is great enough to dispossess it.

Love can be strangled easily by neglect, betrayal, sometimes by a long illness. Jealousy thrives on adversity. It flourishes on hard luck. It may be the only human emotion which requires no fuel.

Theodore Reik, the author-psychiatrist, once described it as "a mixture of depression, aggressiveness and envy." He forgot the word insecurity. This is the coward's cross.

It has broken more marriages and more friendships than death. Worse, it is incurable. Decades ago, it was common for a wife who killed her husband to plead: "I did it because I loved him." The words brought the cynic's smile to my lips.

In most cases, she slaughtered her man because she had lost him to someone else. She was possessed by a rage of visions of him with the other woman and often she was certain that she was losing her mind.

And yet, it should be stated that wives, to generalize, are more tolerant of infidelity than husbands. I know of numberless cases of women who know that he is not working late at the office, but will battle silently to keep the family together.

The number of men who forgive their wives can be numbered on the fingers of one thumb. When she gives herself to another man, she crushes his ego; his virility is assailed. When jealous husbands kill unfaithful wives, they seldom say, "I did it because I loved her." The statement, boiled down, is, "She was no damn good."

The spectrum of jealousy, as a fiery consuming emotion, spreads to organizations, neighborhood houses, big corporations, even nations. Who can deny that if Israel was not a flourishing modern nation built on sand — if it was poor, bankrupt and powerless — that the Arab nations would be less militant. The Egyptians have owned the sand dunes since the days of the pharaohs. In 3,500 years, they have done less with it than the Jews have achieved in 25 years.

Individual success breeds jealousy. Nobody envies the failure. For him we reserve pity. No one worries the chairman of the board more than the aggressive young executive. He's the threat.

Jealousy has scarred my brain many times, in many ways. When reporters were promoted to better jobs, I did not dwell on their success. I bemoaned my failure. Why him? Why not me?

When I was single, I could admire a girl to the point where she walked through my dreams on garlands of flowers. But when she finally said: "Look, Jim, I must be honest with you, I wouldn't go out with you if you were the last man on earth."

Instantly, the garlands became thorns. I despised the girl. Nor, in my callow days, was I above spreading lies about her. I didn't call it jealousy. I thought of her as stupid.

The man who waits for a bus is jealous of the guy in a car. The struggling mother is jealous of the girl friend with the bright new dress. The hard-working student hates the oaf who gets high marks without strain.

My father's jealousy was comical. He took my mother to Lundy's for dinner in Sheepshead Bay. He was 66; she was 65. He excused himself, went to another table, and grabbed a young man by the lapels, and growled: "If I catch you looking at my wife once more, I'll break your face."

The stranger asked for a check and fled. My mother begged a waiter to escort her to the car. She was blind.

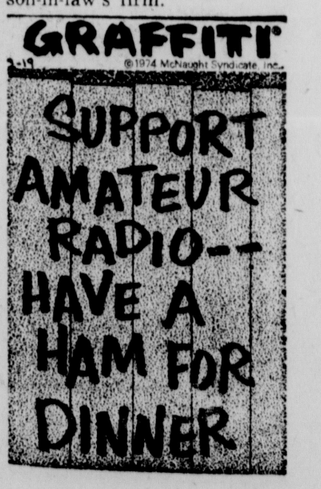

I have lots of cousins, aunts and uncles. We had fun playing nickel poker years ago. Then a couple of books I wrote became lucky and I appeared on some talk shows. I haven't heard from relatives in years.

Jealousy is both given and received. Sometimes, the one who applauds your success the loudest is the most dangerous. Most Presidents of the United States learn to their sorrow that, unless they can buy and rebuy old friendships with government favors, they lose buddies.

To understand man's base nature, watch a baby in a highchair. He spurns food his mother offers; he spits it out to test her adoration of him. If she ignores him for a moment with her husband, or another child, he screams with rage.

He begins life thinking that he is the center of the universe. As he grows, it is difficult to settle for anything less . . .

Letters to the Editor

Individual Choice

Editor, The Freeman:

I cannot suppress my thoughts on the recent Pro-Life Rally in Washington recently. In a letter to the Editor in the Sunday Freeman, the chairman of the Ulster County Right to Life, told America, "don't be deluded by those who wish to control you". Who's trying to control who anyway? Are the (unborn) life-supporters trying to control my life by telling me I have no choice but to bring a baby into this world—if by some sad mistake I should become pregnant?

Maybe one and a half million children have been destroyed since the legalization of abortions. But how many of those would have been potential slum dwellers, and future welfare recipients? How many would have been grossly deformed? How many would have received daily beatings and permanently disturbed emotionally because it was their lot in life to have parents who didn't really want them in the first place? I have always believed God is the creator of all life and he should be the only being to take it away. However I also believe that mankind was given freedom of choice, and if a person decides it would be better for the child not to be brought into this world, then it's a decision for which that individual must be held accountable before his God.

Since each person must live with his own conscience, why not allow that individual any course of action as long as it does not infringe on any other person's rights?

As a matter of fact, the Pro-Lifers — if they succeed in their endeavors, which I doubt they will — will be infringing on my rights as a human being; living in an over-populated world would lessen the right I hold to part of the world's food supply, the right to own and protect my own plot of ground on which to build my home, and the right to have my own "2.2" children someday.

Calley Clemency

Editor, The Freeman:

May I not call attention to Lt. Calley's sad predicament, and suggest to all compassionate citizens of this great democracy who are interested in justice and fair play that it is a scandalous miscarriage of justice that Lt. Calley's action at My Lai in 1968 when he believed he was carrying out the orders of his commanding officers should single him out as the only culprit at My Lai.

May I suggest that your influential paper and all citizens interested in justice join in an appeal to President Richard Nixon to extend his presidential clemency and pardon to Lt. William Calley, not merely as an act of grace, but his right! So many have committed atrocious crimes in the Far East that it is high time that we, who value life and fair play, should rally to the support and defense of this young soldier, deprived of it in the prime of life.

Yours Sincerely,
ROGER GUY-BRAY

Independent Voters

Editor, The Freeman:

I see by the papers where figures show the number of voters who are Republicans is down to 24 per cent, Democrats number 42 per cent, and the increasing number of independents now constitute 34 per cent.

How many independent voters favor the Socialist Labor Party's clear-cut program for Socialism is anybody's guess.

However, it could be more people are getting fed up with the capitalist status quo parties and that's all to the good.

Speaking about abortion, it's a crime to bring unwanted children into a society that has nothing to offer except the plagues of war and unemployment.

It costs thousands and thousands of dollars to raise a boy and then when he gets to be of age he's dragged off to fight wars for capitalism.

Feraca Urged

Editor, The Freeman:

I've just finished reading about Joe Feraca's dilemma about whether he should resign from his job, the school board or fight the acting commissioner of education in court. I hope he fights! In my opinion he's too good a man to lose from either job.

Winslow Homer Landscapes Adorn Gov. Wilson's Wall

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Pleasant seascapes by Winslow Homer now hang where brightly colored Pablo Picasso tapestries once adorned the walls of the governor's Executive Mansion.

Dozens of classical American paintings by Homer, Thomas Eakins, Albert P. Ryder and other artists filled the century-old Victorian house as Gov. and Mrs. Malcolm Wilson inaugurated the first in a series of revolving art exhibits at the mansion recently.

The temporary shows, sponsored by the state Council on the Arts, will succeed Nelson A. Rockefeller's permanent collection of contemporary art, removed by Rockefeller after he stepped down as governor in December.

The first exhibit selected by the council for display is a collection of about 70 paintings, valued at more than $2 million, from the gallery-library in Canajoharie.

In brief remarks formally opening the exhibit, the governor said the art shows would "have a larger constituency to share the joy of the particular art on display here."

Wilson also reminded a gathering of about 60 art connoisseurs that he has recommended a doubling of the state's appropriation for the Council on the Arts.

Most of the works represented the realistic and impressionistic styles of the second half of the 19th century and the early 20th century.

Mrs. Wilson told a reporter she preferred these styles, although she admitted, "I am a completely and totally uninformed person in this field."

"I love the French impressionists, and I've been introduced to the American impressionists and I like them," she added.

"You know the Picasso tapestry 'Guernica' hung upstairs when Mr. Rockefeller was here," said Mrs. Wilson. "It's a beautiful thing and I can appreciate that. But it's the kind of violence I don't want to live with."

At the brief opening ceremony, the chairman of the Canajoharie Gallery-Library board of trustees, Mrs. William Crangle, thanked the governor and Mrs. Wilson for their hospitality.

"You are all invited to come to our library. We have an exit off the New York State Thruway," Mrs. Crangle smiled. "Now if the governor gives us some more gas . . ."

The Council on the Arts has announced plans to bring exhibits from galleries and museums throughout the state to be displayed in the Executive Mansion in the coming months

'73 Inflation Worse Than Earlier Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that inflation in the closing three months of 1973 was even worse than earlier estimates, rising at an annual rate of 8.8 per cent.

This was the worst rate of inflation in 22 years—since the 13 per cent increase in the first quarter of 1951.

The government also reported that real growth of the economy in the fourth quarter of 1973 was 1.6 per cent, an increase over the preliminary estimate of 1.3 per cent.

The figures were contained in the Commerce Department's revised report on the Gross National Product, a measure of the total output of goods and services in the nation last year.

The revised report said that for all of 1973, real economic growth was 5.9 per cent and inflationary growth was 5.4 per cent. Last month's preliminary report had placed real growth at 5.9 per cent but it estimated inflationary growth at 5.3 per cent.

The preliminary report had estimated the inflation rate in the fourth quarter at 7.9 per cent but this was revised upward in today's report to the whopping 8.8 per cent. The annual rate was seven per cent in the third quarter.

The Nixon administration is projecting a 7 per cent inflation rate for 1974, with a high rate in the first part of the year and a lower rate in the second half.

The Commerce Department said the over-all Gross National Product, including both rea and inflationary growth, rose $33 billion to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1,337.5 billion in the fourth quarter.

It said the major reasons for the revisions in the GNP figures was an increase of $4.8 billion in net exports and a net increase of $2.1 billion in inventory investment, over the preliminary figures.

The report also indicated that Americans were saving more and spending less in the fourth quarter, with after-tax personal income increasing $26.7 billion and personal spending only $10.7 billion.

Voyage of 'Light Heart' ...'Destination Unknown'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — High altitude winds today carried Army Reserve Col. Thomas L. Gatch and "Light Heart," his $60,000 balloon craft, toward an uncertain destination in western Africa.

Aeronautic navigation experts predicted that Gatch's attempt to be the first man to make a solo trans-Atlantic crossing by balloon might end with a landing before sunset at Dakar, Senegal.

Gatch had hoped to see his aerial odyssey conclude in France, but one of the 10 helium-filled balloons carrying him aloft in a sealed gondola burst 76 hours after ascent and he was "forced off to the southern edge of the jet stream."

"He's riding the southern edge of it," Bill Armstrong, a Federal Energy Office employe who helped Gatch prepare his balloon, said.

Gatch was sighted by two airliners Tuesday morning, and his position was plotted on radar early Tuesday evening 1,500 miles east of San Juan.

Armstrong said the "Light Heart' was fitted with enough equipment to make the journey a complete "scientific expedition." He said Gatch had no "lateral control," but he could explode two of the remaining nine balloons by means of a wired mechanism to begin his descent.

The balloons would hang below the gondola and act as "dead weight."

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dad and grandfather, Orville Z. Van Alstyne who left us 16 years ago, Feb. 20, 1958.
Deep in our hearts your memory lingers,
We loved you too dearly to ever forget,
And only those who lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
Sons,
LESTER and KENNETH
Daughters-in-law,
ALMA and RUTH
And GRANDCHILDREN

In loving memory of Elizabeth Smith, who passed away Feb. 20, 1973.
The fairest lilies are the first to fall,
The sweetest first to fade,
The fondest, dearest, best of all,
At peaceful rest is laid.
But in God's garden free from pain,
Where grows His fairest flowers,
We know that we shall meet again,
This fairest bloom of ours.

Memoriam

To our dear mom, Edith M. Bilyou, who passed away Feb. 14, 1962.
Peacefully sleeping in that sweet land above,
Where only God's choice are called
All the toil and hardships ended
Enjoying his loving care.
We all hope someday to meet her
When that unknown happy day comes.
Love,
THE FAMILY

FULL SERVICE BANKING FOR A BUSY DOCTOR OR THE HARRIED NURSES.

Banking Chase Manhattan can be the right prescription for people on the run.

Take Chase checking. It's the easy way to uncomplicate the money in your life.

Regular checking. For people who write a lot of checks.

Special checking. For people who write just a few—50¢ a month and 10¢ for each check.

There are also savings certificates. How about 6.50% interest. Minimum $1,000 balance. Money kept on deposit for two-and-a-half to 10 years gets the full interest.

Too long? Then try 6.00% interest. Minimum $1,000 balance. Money kept on deposit for one to two-and-a-half years gets the full interest.

Still too long? Earn 5.50% interest. Minimum $1,000 balance. Money kept on deposit for at least 90 days gets the full interest.

And regular savings. You get 5% compounded daily from day of deposit to day of withdrawal for a 5.13% yield on a balance of $5 or more.

And Chase has many convenient ways to borrow. You might want an instalment loan for a car, a home improvement loan with up to five years to pay, or any other personal loan with a good reason behind it.

There's Chase BankAmericard®. It takes three minutes, and there's no co-signer, no history of your life. If you don't have a card, you can get one from Chase. No fee.

So whether you're the doctor, the nurse, a telephone operator, or a store manager, Chase Manhattan can be a super fringe benefit for people who work hard and long hours

Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate.

Whatever you do for a living—you have a friend at Chase Manhattan.

Library Plans Viewed

POUGHKEEPSIE — Officials from the New York State Library for the Blind recently met with Edward Locke, assistant director, professional staff members of the Mid-Hudson Library System, and area librarians at the MHLS building in Poughkeepsie to discuss plans for expanded services to those with visual or physical handicaps.

Procedures were outlined that are designed to make Talking Books for the Blind and related library materials available to the growing number of citizens eligible to receive them.

The Library for the Blind lends books and magazines on records, on tape, and in Braille to anyone who, because of sight limitations or other physical handicaps cannot read the usual printed books.

To qualify, applicationforms are made avaailable at the local public library associated with the MHLS. They must be signed by a doctor, optometrist, nurse, social worker, or other qualified professional person.

The MHLS has on hand a limited number of Talking Book Machines for distribution to member libraries as needed upon application and certification of request.

EMPLOYES APPRECIATED — Dr. Frederick Zipser serves lunch to a table of Northern Dutchess Hospital employes as part of Employe Appreciation Day at the hospital. In addition to the free gourmet lunch for all employes, a number of employes were recognized for their length of service to the hospital, and "Mr. or Ms. Congeniality Awards" were given. Travel For DCC Students

POUGHKEEPSIE — Dutchess Community College students will travel to Spain, Italy, France and the Soviet Union this summer as part of the college's overseas language program.

Sponsored by the department of foreign languages at DCC, the overseas program is scheduled to begin during the last week in June and continue for six weeks.

According to Assistant Professor Gervas Blakely, director of the overseas program, students will combine intensive daily study with a survey of each country's cultural and geographical diversity. Students earn six credit hours upon successful completion of the program, and the credits may be applied at Dutchess or transferred to another college or university.

During the summer of 1973, more than 40 students traveled abroad as part of the program. With the study programs in France and the Soviet Union new this year, the number of participating students is expected to increase.

Prices and itineraries for the individual programs vary. Details can be obtained by contacting Dr. Blakely at DCC's Poughkeepsie campus.

Acreage Added To Rec Park

RED HOOK — The Red Hook Recreational Park has added 13 additional acres to its property with the completion of two recent transactions.

The park first purchased nine acres of land which borders on the west end of the park property, and then accepted a gift of another four acres from the estate of Norm Thompson of Red Hook.

The new land brings the total park area to 33 acres. Recreation Park officials said the new land would be used to support new tennis courts and planned extensions to the Little League facilities that are currently under construction.

The park also announced the appointment of Robert W. Totman to the Board of Directors for 1974. He replaces Mrs. Sally O'Connor, who resigned earlier this year due to conflicting interests.

Dutchess YWCA To Offer Series

POUGHKEEPSIE — The YWCA of Dutchess County will offer a new six-week series entitled "Planning for Early Retirement" beginning Thursday, Feb. 28 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the YWCA's headquarters on Bancroft Road.

The program will be held each Thursday evening for six consecutive weeks. It is intended primarily for men and women 40 years of age and over.

Weekly topics will include: Wills and Estate Planning, Social Security and its Overall Relation to Retirement, Management of Finances, and Health Care and Nutrition. A panel discussion will also cover issues such as place of residence after retirement and post-retirement employment.

Further details can be obtained by contacting the YWCA.

'74 Officers' Slate Elected by Board

POUGHKEEPSIE — The Board of Directors of the Dutchess County Association for Senior Citizens elected officers for 1974 at its recent December meeting.

Mrs. Joseph J. Mastroianni of Wappingers Falls was reelected president of the organization. Other officers include: John M. Jenner of Poughkeepsie, vice-president; Lauren Straub of Hyde Park, treasurer and Mrs. Donald N. Covert of Pleasant Valley, secretary.

Elected to three-year terms on the Board of Directors were Leo M. Ritter of Wappingers Falls; Rev. Gordon L. Kidd of Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Mastroianni and Straub.

The Dutchess County Association for Senior Citizens administers senior citizen centers in Rhinebeck, Hyde Park, Millbrook, Poughkeepsie, Freedom Plains, Beekman and Pleasant Valley.

Program Theme Is Scheduled

POUGHKEEPSIE — The program theme for the upcoming program of the Whitney M. Young Memorial Institute, to be held March 28 at Vassar College, will be "Strategies for the Delivery of Human Services", according to an announcement by Robert Kaiser, ACSW, chairman of the institute.

Workshops, during the day-long institute for social workers, are planned in a number of areas including community reorganization, the criminal justice system, new planning for health services, and others.

The institute is open to professionals and volunteers in the Mid-Hudson region. Additional information is available by contacting Elizabeth Roosa, Box 267, Hopewell Junction, 12533.

BOOKS FOR LIBRARIES — Complimentary copies of an informative new book on banking have been presented to high school and public libraries of Saugerties by John M. Robbins, executive vice-president of Sawyer Saving s Bank. Accepting copies of the book, Mutual Savings Banks: The Evolution of a Financial Intermediary are Mrs. Barbara R. Hilderbrandt (L), Saugerties High School Library and Mrs. Betty Layton, Saugerties Public Library.

Rondout National Offers Advice on Student Aid

KINGSTON — New York State's full service commercial banks provided more than half of the guaranteed tuition loan obtained by this state's college and vocational school students for the 1973-74 academic year, according to the New York Higher Education Assistance Corporation (NYHEAC), the state agency which administers the federally-insured tuition loan program.

NYHEAC has reported that full service banks assisted more than 50,000 New York State students with more than $70 million in loan funds in 1973 — more than doubling the NYHEAC-guaranteed education aid provided by all of the state's other financial institutions.

"State education officials estimate that about half of the Ulster County area students planning to continue their education beyond high school this fall will require some degree of financial aid to complete their undergraduate career and graduate in the class of 1978", according to James F. Dwyer, president of Rondout National Bank, Broadway and Henry Streets.

"Unfortunately, the escalating costs of higher education may prompt many of these students to end their academic pursuits and begin job hunting without fully exploring how they may obtain financial assistance," Dwyer added.

Although most area students won't receive their letter of college acceptance until mid-spring, Dwyer advises students to begin planning now for "what is surely one of the most important financial expenditures of their lives."

Dwyer said that virtually all of the full service commercial banks in Ulster County provide two distinct types of education assistance: tuition loans granted to the student's parents and NYHEAC-guaranteed loans which are granted directly to the student.

Dwyer said that Ulster County residents attending schools in New York and out of state may qualify for education assistance, and that students and their parents who wish to share the financial burden of education may obtain both a personal education loan and NYHEAC-guaranteed assistance for the same bank.

Both types of loans may be obtained for either the total costs of education or for partial expenses, such as room and board, Dwyer added. Processing of these loans may require up to six weeks, he added, and so Ulster County students should begin now to discuss education assistance with their local full service banker and with the financial aid office of the college they are now attending or plan to attend.

Fatum's Trailer Sales Word:

Travel and Still Help the Crisis

ULSTER AVENUE MALL — Turn off your house and turn on to RV vacationing in a travel trailer, truck camper, camping trailer or motor home.

That's the advice offered by Fatum's Trailer Sales, Inc., 731 Ulster Avenue Mall, in referring to the present energy crisis but still enjoying a little of life.

Frank Fatum of Fatum's Trailer Sales points to a recent leaflet published by the Recreational Vehicle Institute stressing ways to enjoy a vacation this year and still help to ease the energy crisis.

One typical point in the RVI leaflet is this:

"If my family takes a two-week-vacation in a motor home, travel trailer, truck camper or camping trailer, we will be saving energy. How can that be?"

Here's how:

The average American household uses around 23 kilowatt hours of electricity and six therms of natural gas each day. When your family goes on an RV vacation to a camp ground or camping resort, your recreational vehicle uses only about 5 kilowatt hours of electric power and less than half a therm of L-P gas per day.

Another facet of the energy crisis covered in the leaflet concerns the use of gasoline The RVI says that with the anti-pollution equipment on 1973 cars, there is little difference in fuel use between a '73 sedan and a medium-sized motor home or car towing an average sized trailer. "But don't forget," the RVI says, "when you take your family away in your recreational vehicle you are using only one auto. Most homes have two or more cars that total around 300 miles per week."

These and other points are included in the RVI leaflet which may be obtained at the Fatum's Trailer sales office.

Business Newsmakers

Gladys Brower and John Schussler have received staff promotions at the Ulster Savings Bank, 280 Wall Street, according to announcement from Howard C. St. John, president.

Mrs. Brower, who joined the bank in 1963, has been promoted to the new post of EDP supervisor with responsibility for all liaison work with the bank's computer center and related functions. She has worked in several areas of the bank, most recently as supervisor of the bookkeeping department. Mrs. Brower is a Kingston resident.

Schussler, a Port Ewen resident, has been named supervisor of the bank's bookkeeping department. He joined the bank in October 1973 and is a veteran of service with the U.S. Navy.

John C. Corliss has announced his retirement as vice-president of Bankers Trust Hudson Valley, N.A., as of Jan. 31. Prior to his retirement, Corliss was in charge of the municipal and school district accounts, dealing with the financing and advisory needs of these accounts. He is married to the former Ruth Wagner and they reside at 11 Spoor Avenue, Poughkeepsie. They have one daughter, Martha, a teacher at the Cabrini School, West Park.

Arthur S. Elting, a former resident of Kingston, has been appointed director of corporate audit services at Bausch and Lomb, according to Eugene Stillman, vice-president, finance. Elting, whose responsibilities include company-wide financial and operational auditing, is located at the firm's executive offices in Lincoln Square, Rochester. He was previously corporate controller of Spinnerin Yarn Co., South Hackensack, N. J., and prior to that was a consultant with Price Waterhouse & Co., Newark, N. J. Elting, who now makes his home in Palmyra with his wife, Marilyn and two children, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elting of 116 Henry Street. Elting, a 1959 Kingston High School graduate, also graduated from Union College, Schenectady, with a bachelor of arts degree in economics and received a master's degree in public accounting from Rutgers University.

ELLENVILLE — Channel Master Division of Avnet, Inc., Ellenville, has named Richard Deutsch, vice president, to head its picture tube operations. He was formerly in charge of marketing.

The announcement was made by Sylvester Herlihy, chief operating officer of Channel Master, the country's largest exclusive producer of TV picture tubes for the replacement market.

Deutsch, who joined Channel Master 20 years ago and has served in engineering as well as sales positions, will assume responsibility for both the manufacture and marketing of color and black and white tubes. This is the first time that the company has combined both functions under a single executive.

Herlihy said that, under Deutsch's leadership, the company was looking forward to continued growth in the Cathode Ray Tube industry. Deutsch said that current economic trends are encouraging the retention of serviceable sets when a picture tube fails, and that he expects replacement sales to continue growing "as TV service-technicians begin selling more aggressively in response to the new market conditions."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices opened irregularly in moderate trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Shortly after the opening bell, the Dow Jones industrial average had risen 0.63 to 820.17. Advances and declines were closely balanced among the 433 issues traded.

The stock market turned tail on a strong early rally Tuesday, with investors clearly disappointed that talks between President Nixon and Arab foreign ministers had not yielded a quick end to the Arab oil embargo. The Dow, ahead by 16 points in the first trading hour, ended 0.78 lower at 819.54.

Early stock prices included:

Steels—U.S. Steel 39½ up ¼; Bethlehem 31⅝, up ⅛.

Boost for Library Center

KINGSTON

How many gas stations are there in Ulster County?

Did George M. Cohan receive the congressional medal of honor?

How is Xerox doing?

The answers to these and numerous other questions are readily available from the Ulster County Reference Center, which is as near as the nearest telephone.

The Ulster County Legislature, Mid-Hudson Library System, and Kingston Area Library recently joined forces to give a boost to the Ulster County Reference Center.

The County Legislature included in its 1974 budget a grant of $10,000 to the Ulster County Reference Center, also known as Kingston Area Library. Mid-Hudson Library System then matched the county's grant with $10,000 worth of books and other materials. Kingston Area Library in turn maintains the rapidly growing collection and provides the services of Mrs. Ann Moore, who is a professional reference librarian.

The idea of county reference centers is relatively new. Physically the reference center resides in Kingston Area Library, but the services it performs can be thought of as a part of every library and every home in Ulster County. All libraries within Ulster County can be more free to order those books which reflect their own community's interests. Information books tend to be expensive.

Funds For Reference Center

The Ulster County Legislature recently allocated $10,000 to the Ulster County Reference Center in Kingston Area Library. A check presentation ceremony was held in the Executive Chambers. Participating were: (L) Mrs. Ann Moore, Reference Center Librarian; County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago and Mrs. Ruth Poley, president of Kingston Area Library Board of Trustees.

Employees Busing Underway

AMSTERDAM, N. Y. (UPI)—More than 600 persons have signed up for a new system of municipal bus service from Amsterdam to major employers in the Schenectady and Albany areas, officials said Tuesday.

The service is geared to work schedules at the state office campus, the State University and the South Mall state office complex in Albany and the Schenectady General Electric plant.

Bernard S. Kisielis, public safety commissioner, said the response to the plan was overwhelming. He said officials had to deny rides to persons from Gloversville, Johnstown and Perth until they were sure Amsterdam residents were taken care of. He also said officials were seeking more buses.

On the first run, at 10:15 p.m. Monday, 26 men took the bus to their jobs at GE.

"I've had it waiting in gas lines," said one of the first morning riders. He said the bus fare—$6 a week—was "a good deal." It breaks down to 60 cents for each 18-mile one-way trip.

Kisielis said he expects to have 220 persons being bused per day as of next week.

According to the 1970 census, the city of Amsterdam had a population of 25,524.

Economics Department Lists Plans

NEW PALTZ

The Department of Economics and Political Science at the State University College at New Paltz has announced plans for the development of a Business and Economics Center, designed to provide non-classroom learning opportunities in the business area.

According to Dr. Herman Walker, chairman of the department, the center will house specialized periodicals and other materials not available at the college library, as well as facilities for statistical research and analysis. It is expected that student internship programs, and community lecture series will also be a part of the center's functions.

Dr. Martin Labbe, assistant professor of economics and political science, is responsible for the initial organization of the Center.

Dance Concert Slated

NEW PALTZ

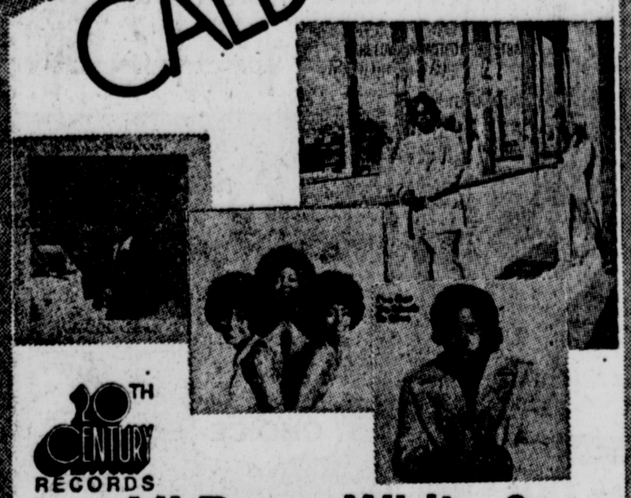

"On 5", a modern dance concert featuring five choreographers, will be performed on Thursday, February 28, at 8 p.m. in the Art Gallery of the State University College at New Paltz.

The five choreographers and the titles of their works are: Judy Bachrach, "Sadhara;" Chris Ferro, "Short Circuit"; Pat Jacobsen, "Kinetic Collage"; Sue Martits, "Weightless Space"; and Leah Hirshfield, "Animated Hieroglyphics."

Performing with the choreographers are Richard Bachrach, Barbara Hitzig, Arlene Shkolnik, and Linda Miller.

There is no charge for the performance, though space is limited. Reservation slips may be obtained at the Art Gallery from 9:30 to 4:00, Monday through Friday. The dance concert will begin promptly at 8:00 and no one will be admitted during the performance.

New Saugerties School Superintendent

Lee Discusses Educational Philosophy

By CARL GRAHAM
SAUGERTIES

"Education is an ongoing process."

Daniel Y. Lee, newly appointed superintendent of the Saugerties school district, relaxed behind his desk in the high school principal's office, stubbed out a cigarette, and considered a question about his educational philosophy.

One of his major goals as he begins his superintendent's career is to make maximum use of the district buildings outside of regular school hours.

"Shutting down a school at 3 p.m. is like shutting down the Thruway in the afternoon," he explained. "Education never really stops."

He feels that educators must utilize community resources to the fullest. "We must get outside the four walls of the classroom," he said. Work release programs, school-community programs, vocational training programs, adult education — these things are important if we are to make full use of our resources."

Lee, dark haired, brown eyed, and slender, doesn't look like the typical school superintendent, if there is any such person. Still on the sunny side of 40, he is closer in appearance to the high school students than he is to the superintendent of schools stereotype.

He has been high school principal since 1969, and will continue in the position until a successor is named. He has decided to stay in the high school building permanently, even after someone else takes over as principal.

"I told the board I wouldn't go to Hill Street (the district's administration office)," Lee said. "I'm going to stay here in the junior-senior high school building. Half of the administrators and half of the pupils in the district are here. I feel if I can maintain a close contact with staff and students I can do a better job."

Special

Lee, who received his bachelor of science degree from Manhattan College and his master of science degree from Hofstra College, has done graduate work at Niagara University, Queens College, and the State University College at Albany, where he is currently taking a three-hour educational administration course.

Before coming to Saugerties in 1967 as assistant principal of the junior-senior high school, he served for nine years in the Massapequa, Long Island, school district. Beginning as a social studies teacher, he also served as director of the adult education program, attendance supervisor, dean of discipline and director of summer recreation.

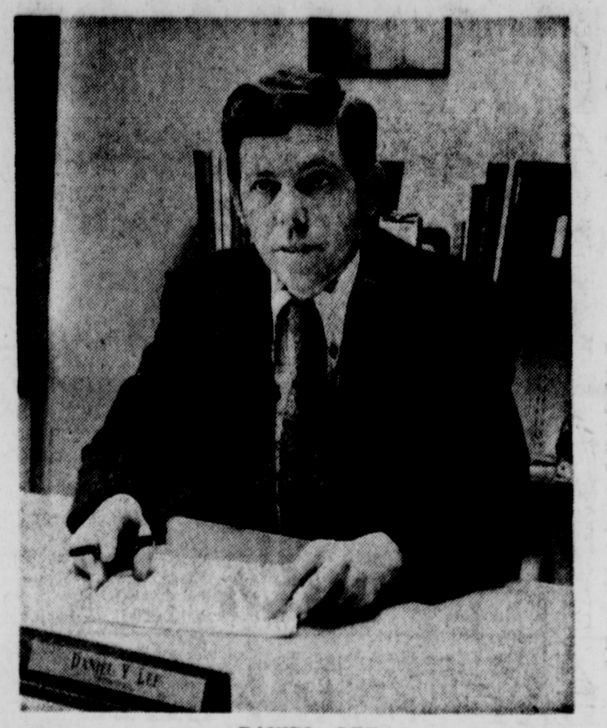

Lee feels his varied experience there and since coming to Saugerties is a definite asset in his new work, and that it gives him a better overall view of the problems of the various departments in a school district.

His decision to stay in the high school, his constant references to the needs of both students and staff, and his reluctance to align himself with any particular educational philosophy all point up one thing — he believes that good personal relationships are crucial if a school district is to function effectively.

Asked if he feels that coming up through the ranks in a district where he has been named top man is an asset or a hindrance, Lee chose the first. "Knowing the personnel involved helps in solving the problems," he said. "I feel it is an asset."

Summing up his feelings as he takes over the reins, he returned again to the personal angle.

"Students and administration must have a good mutual relationship. If we can treat each other with respect—that's what makes it all worthwhile."

CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 20, 1974 SEVENTEEN

Glen Street Project Opposed

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The City Planning Board has disapproved a plan to construct 110 condominium apartment units off Glen Street "unless a satisfactory agreement can be determined between the city and the developer regarding off-site storm and sanitary sewer."

Robert E. Pritchard, city planning director, put it this way, "The existing sewer system is adequate for what's there. Add 110 units and there's a good chance of problems developing."

The planning board made that decision, among others, at its regular monthly meeting on Feb. 14. Attending the meeting were Paul Mills, the chairman, George Aird, John Rapp, Planning Board members, and Thomas Wickman, city engineer.

The board gave its approval to a zoning amendment that would clear the way for The Daily Freeman to relocate from its 3 Broadway offices to a vacant A&P supermarket building on Hurley Avenue.

The County Planning Board had previously ruled that the decision should be one of local determination. Referral to the county board was necessary because the building is within 500 feet of the city line.

The Planning Board did, however, reserve the right to review the final site plan layout. The zoning amendment removed restrictions on the size of the plant and the number of employes a newspaper could employ.

The decision regarding the Glen Street project could have far-reaching effects as it appears the city is taking the position that a redeveloper will have to take into account something more than just his own project before getting approval.

In this case, it is the sanitary and storm sewers in the area. According to Pritchard, Glen Street is served by an eight-inch sanitary sewer line. The addition of 110 units would overtax that line, it is reasoned, therefore, the party introducing the 110 units should take some responsibility.

City officials are not suggesting the developer pay the entire cost of new sewer lines — in this case it would amount to some 1,500 feet down to the main sewer line at Washington Avenue — but the city is suggesting that a "satisfactory agreement" be terminated before preliminary approvals will be granted.

"Said agreement should provide for elimination of an adverse area sewer problems that would additionally be imposed by development of the subject property," the statement from the board read. "It is the board's opinion that the sewer situation should be concluded prior to any major rezoning consideration in the area."

Keuhner and his engineer, Mario Scavuzzo of Fair Street and city engineer Wickman attended the Planning Board meeting where the Glen Street proposal was discussed.

A public hearing was held by the Laws and Rules Committee of the Common Council on Feb. 7 concerning the Glen Street proposal. More than 100 area residents turned out to protest while the only person speaking in favor was the developer, Karl Keuhner of Mt. Kisco. Keuhner spoke to the financial (tax) benefits to the city but also said that if the condominium project were not approved that his firm would build single family residences. The area is now zoned RR. The petition is to change it to R-4.

This is the second go round for the 14.5 acres off Glen Street once owned by the Children's Home. In 1971, a proposal to build 200 units of garden type apartments drew much the same opposition as this year's proposal for 110 condominium units. Although public hearings were held on the 1971 proposal, it was withdrawn before getting to the Council for a vote.

HONOR VIETNAM VETS — Alphonso Sellet (standing center) an Ulster County resident who was instrumental in establishing "Honor Vietnam Veterans Day" nationally for March 29, is shown at a recent ceremonial dinner in the Shoreham Hotel in Washington, D. C., where plans for the event were outlined. Among the many dignitaries present to recognize the day which has been proclaimed by President Nixon, were: (L) standing, Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th Dist.) Gen Chappy James USAF, seated behind the podium; Sellet; Gen. Creighton Abrams, chief of staff; Sellet's wife, Joan; Sen. William J. B. Dorn of South Carolina, chairman of Veteran's Affairs.

Energy From the Sun ... Earth's Salvation

By JON POWERS

POUGHKEEPSIE — The sun is particularly attractive in these energy-conscious times. It's not likely to go anyplace in the next thousand years or so, the Arabs can't embargo its rays, and it packs enough power to provide 500 times the energy America will need by the year 2000.

So it's not surprising that more and more people — scientists and laymen alike — see solar energy as the most feasible replacement for the earth's own dwindling resources. And it's especially encouraging that significant quantities of manpower and capital have already been invested to harness and use the sun's rays.

Part of that ongoing program was detialed at Tuesday's dinner meeting of the Mid-Hudson Section of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers in Poughkeepsie. The guest speaker represented Grumman Aerospace Corp., better known for its design of the lunar landing module, but also a leader in the field of solar energy technology.

Ivan Tobias, marketing manager for Grumman's Energy Systems Group, told some 100 engineers and their guests Tuesday night that his firm is already heating nine of its buildings on Long Island with solar energy, and that Grumman is offering its technology to other commerical and industrial businesses.

According to Tobias, Grumman has already reduced its fuel oil consumption by 70 per cent, and its electrical demand by 50 per cent, and projects annual savings of more than $1 million in fuel and electric bills when all of its facilities are eventually converted to solar power.

Tobias emphasized that research must still be conducted in areas of heat storage and absorption refrigeration units (which use the sun's rays to cool buildings in the summertime). Grumman began its solar energy program three years ago, said Tobias, but it wasn't until recently that the demand grew for large-scale, economic solar systems.

"Right now, we have to buy time to develop the resources we have at hand," said Tobias, "such as oil reserves off the California coast and in Alaska, our coal deposits and natural gas. We also have to buy time to improve our solar conversion technology, but there are solar techniques available right now that we can use."

But Tobias reemphasized that solar energy, and especially solar heating, can bring substantial savings right now. Anything less than a total effort, he said, won't be enought.

Ron Brand, chairman of the Mid-Hudson section of IEEE, earlier called for both "conservation and development of our natural resources. We must do both in an intelligent fashion, but with a sense of urgency." Brand laid part of the blame for the energy crisis on "indecisive leadership at the national level" and "inadequate funding" for new technologies.

Hinchey Wants Plan Support

SAUGERTIES — Democratic State Committeeman Maurice Hinchey of Saugerties today called for public support for a Democratic plan to combat the energy crisis.

Sharply criticizing what he referred to as "the Wilson administrations timid, superficial approach to the gasoline shortage", Hinchey called for a mandated seven day odd-even rationing system, a heavy tax on excess profits of oil companies and a suspension of the (up to) seven percent sales tax on home heating fuel.

"There is evidence that the increases in fuel prices have already cost several billion dollars", Hinchey said. "An increase in the cost of foreign oil, which contributes less than eight percent to our supply, is no justification for companies to raise the price of domestic oil products so exhorbitantly. The uniformity of the oil companies actions indicates strongly that they are conspiring to keep the price of oil products at artificially inflated levels", Hinchey said.

A recent poll conducted by Congressman Sam Stratton showed 71 per cent favored gas rationing to combat shortages. The only ones opposed to rationing are the oil companies and some in the Nixon and Wilson administration.

"Instead of rationing, the energy czar William E. Simon is following a course which is leading to even greater hardships. He is attempting to limit the demand for petroleum products by letting the price go up. Letting prices go up may cut consumption but not equitably. The little guy, the average motorist will be hardest hit. The way to control gasoline consumption is not by letting the prices go through the ceiling.

"There should be tough provisions to ban windfall profits in the oil industry including a stiff excess profits tax, so that oil company profits can't keep on soaring while everybody else suffers from the shortage."

"We should require oil companies, producers, distributors and importers to provide the government with full and complete statistics on all their supplies production and imports. Incredible as it seems, the government today has no authority to get such information."

New Paltz Theater Owner Declares for Governor

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

Deciding to give the people of the State of New York a choice between what he calls "Boo Hoo and Ba Ha", Donald Bellinger, the proprietor of the Academy Theatre in New Paltz, declared himself a candidate for Governor in this year's election at a press conference in New Paltz Monday.

Bellinger said the Republican and Democratic Parties are now "so old, so well-honed, so well-oiled . . . so antiquated" that they chiefly serve themselves rather than the public. The alternative he is presenting is his own Real Party, and he said he is going to be on the ballot this November.

"Dull, grey, witless men" are running the state and the country, according to Bellinger, and he thought this was "the thing most fundamentally wrong with our country." He said younger people, such as himself — he will be 31 this April — "can see more clearly what is wrong with government."

Getting on the ballot is not easy. To do so in New York State a person has to win a major party primary, or gather sufficient signatures on a petition. Bellinger said he needed at least 12,000 signatures from registered voters who had voted in the last election, and at least 50 from each county in the state. The only exception from the 50 per county rule he has found is in far-upstate Hamilton and Fulton Counties, which are treated as a single county for petition purposes.

To get his points across, and gather aid in getting his petitions signed, Bellinger pledged to tour the state by a variety of means, including roller skates, bus, train, balloon, horse, foot, canoe, barge, and "hopefully dirigible."

Bellinger spoke against campaigns financed with large contributions from special interest groups, and said his own campaign would have a $20 limit on individual contributions. He proposed a lottery with $1 tickets to finanance campaigns, with the prize being in his case "Good government if Bellinger wins."

The points Bellinger wants to get across in his statewide touring, which he said begins this week with a bus trip to Albany, are many. Among them are:

- A bill of rights protecting those who are other than "ordinary 9 to 5 citizens", such as children, women, the aged, and artists — "those on the outskirts of society."
- The removal from the books of laws dealing with victimless crimes, such as Blue Laws, gambling, and prostitution. He said these laws do not protect the public, but do provide "an atmosphere for corruption" by organized crime.
- A review of the Civil Service system, and the worth of tenure and seniority, as well as a bonus system for state workers as incentive for them to do more than the requirements of their job.
- Solution of the transit problem in New York City by allowing the transit fare to float, with the difference between the present fare and what it floats to begin a tax deductible payment from the employer to the employee.
- No paid political ads for himself, and none recommended for other candidates, with the media providing the space necessary for candidates to make their programs known.
- Registration and state-provided heroin for addicts, which he felt would cost about a tenth of what addicts cost the public to support their habits, and would make the cities more livable.

Bellinger would also like the penalties for marijuana possession and use "reviewed." As for legalization, Bellinger said "I don't know if it would be as much fun if it were legal."

Sounding a Hubert Humphreyesque note, Bellinger said, "Joy has gone out of our institutions, joy has gone out of our society."

"Have you ever been to a Republican or Democratic picnic?" asked Bellinger. "People can hardly get the chicken up to their mouths."

The candidate said he was not "appealing to any radical element." "I think I make as much or more sense to any person in the state than any of the alternatives," said Bellinger.

He has set up a campaign headquarters at 16 North Chestnut Street in New Paltz, and said he would welcome people's "support and suggestions."

Vogt Heads Area Campaign

KINGSTON

Ulster County District Attorney Francis J. Vogt has been appointed area chairman for the Bendictine Hospital '76 Diamond Jubilee Campaign, Campaign General Chairman Harry C. Kapreilian announced recently.

Benedictine's $1.5 million effort is designed to furnish initial financing for a $9 million program to include a new wing and other facilities for the hospital. The balance will be financed through long term borrowing.

The area division of the campaign is establishing committees in 17 major communities in the county. These committees will approach businesses and individuals in their own communities for subscriptions to the campaign.

Joseph D. Saccoman and James F. Gilpatric, both of Kingston, will serve as Vogt's vice chairman.

In accepting the appointment, Vogt urged community efforts on behalf of good hospital facilities.

"Our hospitals are most important links in the chain of services that provide a good quality of life for us all," he said. "It is essential that we support them in their goal of delivering the finest in health care."

"I hope everyone will afford himself the opportunity to help Benedictine Hospital perform its services in facilities designed for a high level of medical care."

Community chairmen who have been appointed to date include: Accord, Joseph Traficanti, Jr.; Highland, Anthony J. Koenig; Hurley, Mrs. Jack H. Lupton and vice chairman, Mrs. David W. Potter; New Paltz, Thomas W. Roach, Jr.; Phoenicia, Philip Gordon; Port Ewen, Roger W. Mabie; Rosendale and Tillson, Peter B. Mathews and vice chairman, Louis F. Muenkel; Saugerties, Henry S. Hartley and vice chairman, Richard F. Thornton; Ulster, Orvil E. Norman and vice chairman, Harold E. Keator; West Hurley, Mrs. Willian J. Carr; and Woodstock, Flloyd A. DeWitt.

Vogt, who practiced law in Kingston from 1959 until 1971 when he was elected district attorney, is a member of the advisory board of the Benedictine Hospital and served one year as Kingston city chairman of the Cerebral Palsy Fund. He is active in a number of civic and professional groups.

He is married to the former Medora Arnold of Staten Island and they reside at 2 Hurley Avenue, Kingston, with their two children.

Daffodil Days Scheduled

KINGSTON

The Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society has selected Thursday and Friday, April 4 and 5, for their Daffodil Days, it was announced today by Robert C. (Josh) Randall, 1974 Cancer Crusade Chairman.

A force of volunteers will be bringing this first spring flower, the flower of hope, to residents of Kingston as a major fund-raising effort that signifies the start of the local Crusade against cancer. Donations collected from the flower sale will be used for cancer research, plus local educational and service programs of the Ulster County ACS Unit.

Thousands of beautiful field grown daffodils will be coming into the area from the West Coast as part of a special shipment for Daffodil Days in New York. The promotion will be conducted by the American Cancer Society in several eastern states. The daffodil is selected because it is one of the first flowers of spring and to many, represents the hope of the new season.

These fresh cut flowers will be sold at various locations of the Kingston area. Businesses and employers will be encouraged to make advance orders for distribution to their employees or as gifts to hospitals, nursing homes or homes for the aged.

Initial reports indicate 8,000 daffodils will make up the "flower power" force here in Ulster County.

Geography Scholarship Awarded to Student

NEW PALTZ

The Third Annual Geography Department Scholarship of the State University College at New Paltz was awarded to Steve Ruelke.

A native of Carmel, Ruelke graduated from Houghton Academy in 1967 and enrolled at New Paltz the following September. He joined the Coast Guard in 1968 and served for four years. During his enlistment, Steve married the former Mary Ann Close. Mrs. Ruelke, a graduate of Wagner College, teaches third grade in Milton.

A junior, Ruelke has attained an academic average of 3.83 in his major since returning to the College in 1972 after the service. After completing his undergraduate program in 1975, he hopes to continue his academic work in geography at the graduate level at Penn State or the University of Wisconsin. He is especially interested in the cultural geography of North America.

The Geography Department Scholarship is funded by a former New Paltz student who graduated several years ago. The donor, a geography major, has asked to remain anonymous. In establishing the scholarship, he stipulated that the faculty members of the department select the student from among its majors, that the student be a junior, and that the recipient be selected primarily on the basis of academic endeavor.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS PROGRAM—Ann Bauch (second from L), district coordinator for the Ulster County Special Olympics program, and Ilene Pisarek, publicity, were guest speakers recently at an Exchange Club dinner in an attempt to gain support and sponsors for the program. Joining the Special Olympics representatives are Exchange Club officers James Amendola (L), president, Joseph Bruck, acting secretary and Bob Milliken, vice president. The local Olympics will be held May 4 in Dietz Stadum. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Publisher Named

Bernard Wainer, publisher of the Ellenville Press, has been named by the Ellenville Democrats' committee on vacancies to seek a trustee seat in the upcoming March village elections. Wainer replaces Adrian Milton on the Democratic ticket. Milton resigned his candidacy over the weekend, saying he preferred to devote all his energies to the Ellenville Board of Education, of which he is a member.

AN OPEN LETTER FROM ULSTER COUNTY CIVIL SERVANTS TO EVERY ULSTER COUNTY RESIDENT

We come to you the citizens of the County of Ulster to present our case. We urge you to read on because we believe each one of you has a stake in what is to be discussed.

We are the people who plow your roads, shovel your snow, nurse the aged and the ill, maintain your community college, insure the public health and help the poor. To many of us our job is something more than just a paycheck. Contrary to what many people think we are not draining the taxpayer's pocket. We are overall the lowest paid County Employees in the State of New York. We account for only a small percentage of the total Ulster County Budget and our salaries range from 5,000 to 10,000 dollars a year. Approximatey 40% of us are taking home less than $85.00 a week, an income level that is now commonly considered by economists as the bare poverty level for a family of four. As a result many of us must seek public assistance to make ends meet. We are people who are willing to work full-time for the government to earn a living but are being forced to suffer the indignity of having to seek welfare to support ourselves and our families. This we feel is not only a personal tragedy but like-wise a strain on the county we serve.

The people of Ulster County have long taken pride in the thrift and frugality of their elected leaders with respect to the taxpayer's dollar, but we are taxpayers too, and we believe there is such a thing as being penny wise and dollar foolish. Many of our salaries are subject to state and federal proportionate reimbursement, and therefore many thousands of dollars of state and federal revenue have been lost yearly to Ulster County due to our drastically low salary schedule.

The loss is even greater with respect to the quality of services available to you. For every job, there is a period of extensive training involved in order for a worker to function at a maximum level of efficiency. In 1973 alone the tally of lost professionals in the Health Department, the Infirmary, and in Social Services passed the hundred mark. This does not include the loss of paraprofessionals, typists and clerks, and employees of the highway department. Ulster County has become merely the training grounds for other counties thus it is virtually impossible to run an efficient government agency with such an unstable staff. With our present wage set-up an employee who comes in today draws exactly the same wage that an employee who started one year ago. makes. This provides no incentive to stay for experienced workers. Any of you in private industry could see that your business would soon be weakened by a continual loss of experienced help.

Although it is not our contention that appointed and elected officials in Ulster County are overpaid, we ask you to consider for a moment where their regard for the taxpayer's money was when they voted themselves and their appointees 10, 20, and 30% raises on 10,000 to 18,000 dollar salaries but told us that Ulster County could not afford to exceed 5.5% on our 5,000 to 10,000 dollar salaries.

We have a firm belief in the democratic process. We as public employees have been denied the right to strike. We do not want to have a strike. We believe that an informed public can compel its elected representatives to make honest and fair decisions. We have presented the Ulster County Legislature with a resolution from us urging them to give us emergency salary increases now. We are not seeking luxury. Nor do we seek to put fat in our government agency. We seek a livable wage for ourselves and our families in exchange for our labors. Nothing less and nothing more. And we seek it now.

You the citizens of Ulster County should know that many of us did not sign this out of fear of reprisal with our jobs. Since our request was made to the legislature, one of our workers has already been fired—the Vice President of our union and a man who is remembered by his co-workers as the one who was always doing more than his share of work. He is a man of courage and conviction who had called the state safety inspector into his shop on behalf of his co-workers less than two weeks before he was dismissed. (The inspector spent two days writing safety violations.) Others of us have been more subtly threatened. We come to you with faith that you are a public with a moral conscience and will not tolerate such intimidation.

We ask only that you voice your beliefs. If you have read this and agree with our position, please cut out and send the following letter to the Ulster County Legislature to let them know that you support us. If you would like more information we will be happy to respond to a post card sent to the following address: U.P.O. Box 512, Kingston, N.Y. 12401.

We need your help NOW.

Sincerely
The Employees of Ulster County

Dear Legislator,

As an Ulster County Resident I wish to voice my support for the Ulster County Employees. I hope that you, my elected representative, will give this prompt and positive attention.

Sincerely,

_____ (Signature)

Ulster County Resident

Quilt-Making Expert to Speak to Woman's Club

MRS. RUTH CULVER of Kingston is preparing for her presentation at the Feb. 28 meeting of the Woman's Club of Saugerties. Mrs. Culver will speak on quilt-making and show examples of both new and old quilts. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

A recent revival of interest in quilt making as an art medium which has swept the country in the past several years has captured the interest and enthusiasm of women of all ages. In conjuction with this revival, Mrs. Carol McCabe, chairman of the home department for the Woman's Club of Saugerties, announces that Mrs. Ruth Culver, of Kingston, will be the guest speaker at its Thursday, Feb. 28 meeting at the Trinity Parish House, Saugerties, at 8 p m.

A homemaker, mother of four, and grandmother of two, Mrs. Culver has been involved with quilting since the age of 10, when she produced her first full-sized quilt for a doll's bed. Mrs. Culver, who is a native born Californian, was taught quilting by her mother, who in turn had learned it from her mother when she lived in Virginia.

In addition to private instructions, Mrs. Culver has been a member of the faculty of the Continuing Education Division of UCCC for the past two years where she teaches all mediums of quilting.

Mrs. Culver's presentation to the Woman's Club of Saugerties will include an historical sketch of quilt making as well as examples of both new and old quilts.

Immediately afterwards, the public is invited to a "Bring and Buy" Auction. Members are reminded to bring three items which can be auctioned off immediately. Those items to be auctioned will include plants, books, handicraft items, knick-knacks.

The Woman's Club of Saugerties wishes to make the public aware of a survey letter which has been sent out to various community members and organizations to determine the need for a community association to secure a recreational center and/or swimming pool for the Saugerties area.

Also as a reminder, the annual dinner-dance is to be held on March 1st at the Flamingo Restaurant, Saugerties. Tickets may be purchased from ticket chairman, Mrs. Mary Finger. Reservation chairman, Mrs. Gerry Caughell, should be contacted for further information.

DAFFODIL DAYS — Mrs. Seymour Semilof, right, chairman of the advance orders for Daffodil Days, sponsored by Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society, accepts the initial order for the fresh-cut flowers from Miss Gail Gardner, secretary, and T. E. Nolan, supervisor, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Washington Avenue. These "flowers of hope" will be available on Thursday, April 4. They may be purchased individually or in bouquets of a dozen each. In conjunction with Daffodil Days, Mrs. Semilof said, "We are suggesting that businesses give daffodils to their secretarial staff or employes, and hubands might also consider taking some flowers home to their wives that day." Advance orders, which must be placed by March 15, will be taken by Mrs. Semilof, Co-chairman Mrs. Henry Jacobs of Kingston, and the Society office at 400 Broadway. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Valentine Queens Selected by Sorority Chapters

MRS. JOHN KURECK

MRS. JAMES CLEVELAND

(Freeman photos by Carey)

Mrs. John Kureck and Mrs. James L. Cleveland were selected Valentine Queens of their respective Chapters of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. They were honored at a recent dinner dance at Holiday Inn, Kingston. The event was sponsored by the three Kingston Chapters, Eta Eta Chapter, Xi Alpha Omega Chapter, and Gamma Chi Chapter. Proceeds were donated to the Heart Fund.

Mrs. Cleveland represented Xi Alpha Omega Chapter. An active member of the sorority for two and a half years, she is serving as secretary of her Chapter. She had served on various committees and had been chairman of the social committee. Mrs. Cleveland resides on Valentine Avenue with her husband and son, Jay.

Mrs. Kureck has served Eta Eta Chapter as secretary and during the last three years served on the Valentine Dance committee, program committee and social committee. She resides in Woodstock with her husband John and four children, Christine, John David, Keith and Craig.

Photographs of Mrs. Kureck and Mrs. Cleveland will be entered in the Beta Sigma Phi International Contest.

Beta Sigma Phi is an international organization for women who wish to enrich their lives through increased friendship, cultural appreciation and service to their community.

Benefit Rummage Sale Slated

The Mothers Club of Northern Dutchess Hospital in Rhinebeck is busy collecting articles for its annual rummage sale. The sale will take place May 9 to 11 at Dutchess County Fairgrounds. Hours will be Thursday 6 to 9 p.m.; Friday 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m.; and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Club would appreciate any usable clothing, furniture, and household articles. Those wishing to donate items should contact anyone of the following members: Mrs. Charles Buerkert, Mrs. Ronald Unson, Mrs. Lawrence Tremper, all of Red Hook; Mrs. Manuel Cana of Rhinebeck; Mrs. Walfred Kokkilla of Forest Park; Mrs. Allan Davis, Mrs. Karl Hettline, Clermont, Tivoli, Germantown areas; Mrs. Craig Rheden, Hyde Park, Staatsburg. Members ask that all clothing be packed separately.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to purchase necessary equipment in Pediatric and Maternity Wards of the hospital and to meet the Club's $10,000 pledge for the new wing. A total of $8000 has been donated so far.

BPW Conference Scheduled; Legislative Issues on Program

At a meeting of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club, an affiliate of the National and International BPW Clubs, Inc., President Maureen Graham announced the 1974 National Legislative Conference has been scheduled for March 6 to 8 at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D.C. The program will provide information on important legislative issues and delegates will be accorded an opportunity to meet and share opinions with Congressional representatives

The club held its dinner-meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Tuesday, Feb. 12. Guest speaker for the occasion was Beatrice Bright of BeeVeer House in Saugerties. She was assisted in her presentation of the history and use of candles by Ann Veer. The women demonstrated how these unusual wax creations can be turned into beautiful decorative and useful items in the home and office by using appropriate holders and floral wreaths. The guests were introduced by Marge Bruck, chairman of the BPW Fellowship Committee.

It was also announced that a slate of officers will be presented at the March 12 meeting with elections slated for April. Elected chairman of the nominating committee was past president and charter member Dorothy A. Narel. Election members of the committee are Mary Fisher, past president and charter member; Marge Dalton, Adelaide Hasseth and Nancy Hussey.

Collette Sonnenberg, chairman of the BPW Civic Participation Committee also reported to the membership. Details of her report will be announced.

Buffet Planned by Paltz AAUW

The New Paltz Branch of American Association of University Women will gather for its annual buffet dinner at New Paltz Middle School, Tuesday, Feb. 26 at 6:30 p.m.

The program will consist of a presentation of the Emerging Issues for the members to consider for the next bienniem. A special feature of this year's dinner will be a silent auction. Each member will bring something special for the auction table.

Several group meetings are slated. The Morning Bridge Group will meet Wednesday, Feb. 27 at 10 a.m. at the home of Mrs. William Schultz, and Wednesday, March 13 at 10 a.m. at the home of Miss Gladys White. The Media Study Group meeting is planned for Thursday, March 7 at 9:45 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Louis Smith. Those present will help to answer a questionnaire.

A meeting of the Evening Bridge Group is scheduled for Thursday, March 7 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Margaret Casson. The Afternoon Bridge Group will meet Monday, March 11 at 12:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. David Hyler. On Wednesday, March 20 at 9:45 a.m., there will be a meeting of the Morning Book Discussion Group at the home of Miss Eva Clark.

Membership in AAUW is open to any woman having a bachelor's degree from an accredited college. Those interested are invited to contact Mrs. Dirk DeWitt of New Paltz.

MISS CECELIA SMITH, second from right, community service chairman, and Miss Agnes Reis, right, life member of the New York Telephone Company Pioneers, visited the Infirmary recently to distribute a wide selection of desert boots handmade by Pioneers for the patients. In attendance at the presentation were (l-r) Bernhardt Kramer, commissioner of social services; Mrs. Robert McSpirit, associate director of nursing service; and Margaret Ringwald, seated, patient. World Day of Prayer March 1

Church Women United in the Saugerties area will celebrate World Day of Prayer Friday, March 1, at 11 a.m. at Centerville United Methodist Church. Those planning to attend should bring a sandwich. Dessert and beverage will be provided.

World Day of Prayer began in 1887. This year Church Women United in thousands of communities in every state will unite with women in 168 lands to offer prayers for "peace building."

The theme of World Day of Prayer in 1974 is "Make Us Builders of Peace." The worship materials have been prepared by the women of Japan who, having experienced the cost of World War II, have worked hard in succeeding years in the peace movement in their own country. The worship service is sent to correspondents in about 168 countries and islands. They, in turn, arrange for its adaptation and translation into their own languages and dialects.

World Day of Prayer in the United States is the most widely observed ecumenical celebration sponsored by Church Women United. Protestant, Orthodox and Roman Catholic men and women will mobilize their intention to be "builders of peace" by channeling their energies into effective acts of reconciliation in their local communities.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Viano Jr. Become Grandparents Monday...Twice

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Viano Jr. of 6 Joy's Lane in Kingston became new grandparents twice in one day thanks to their two daughters.

On Monday, Feb. 18, Margaret Ann Viano Margopoulos, wife of Bruce Margopoulos of 129 Washington Avenue, Kingston, gave birth to a baby girl, Heather Marie, born in Benedictine Hospital. Approximately 30 miles away, another daughter, Kathleen Viano Sulkey, wife of Kevin Sulkey of South Cairo, became the mother of a baby boy, Kevin John Jr., at Catskill Memorial Hospital.

The arrival of the two children creates a fifth generation in the Viano family.

Growing Wine Grapes, New Course at UCCC

Ulster County Community College this spring is offering a credit-free course to assist interested persons in growing grapes to produce their own wine.

The course, Growing the Winegrape, will meet on five Thursday evenings at the Stone Ridge campus starting March 7. February 28 is the registration deadline.

The instructor will be Eric Miller, a graduate of the Geneva Wine Workshop and Vineyard and cellar master of the Benmarl Wine Company in Marlboro.

Mr. Miller, a second generation Hudson Valley wine grower, has lived in the most famous wine areas of Europe, and is known in this area as a consultant to many wine growers. His family wine company has grown and produced the first Hudson Valley vinefer and hybrid varietal wines.

Today's interest in retrieving once common arts of everyday life has not only led more people to drinking wine, but also to making and growing the winegrape on an amateur and commercial scale.

The object of this course will be to illustrate by lecture, photographs, tasting and exposure to the field how to grow the wine grape and what grapes are best to grow.

Further information on the course can be obtained by calling the Office for Continuing Education at the College.

DEAR ABBY: Every year my husband and I give a large gala party. This year we mailed out 82 invitations. They were marked, "R.S.V.P." with our phone number. Our return address was on every envelope.

The day before the party we had only 48 responses! I asked two of my friends to please help me phone those from whom we had not heard to find out whether they were coming.

Would you believe that 26 said, "Yes, we're coming, but we didn't think we had to let you know unless we COULDN'T make it." (Three in that group asked if they could bring their houseguests — which totaled nine extra.) Three couples declined, saying they had meant to let us know, but just never got around to it. Five couldn't be reached, so we assumed that they were out of town.

My husband was furious, and said: "Next year we're not calling up anybody. If they don't respond but come anyway, when they come to the door we'll just say, 'Sorry, we weren't expecting you.'"

Abby, please print this, and tell people that R.S.V.P. means, "Please let us know whether OR NOT you are coming?"

HAD IT IN PALM SPRINGS

DEAR HAD IT: Here's your letter. And if it's any comfort to you, you have lots of company. People who ignore R.S.V.P. invitations are either ignorant or negligent. And it's a toss-up as to which is worse.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I haven't lived together for 14 years. He sleeps upstairs and I sleep downstairs. We hardly speak.

Here's my question: If two people who aren't married but have lived together as man and wife for seven years are considered legally married, why wouldn't my husband and I, who have NOT lived together as man and wife for 14 years, be considered legally divorced?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Altho there are "common law marriages," there are no common law divorce.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about a relative of mine. She has built a chapel in her home, and I mean, it's as big as some churches have. She must have spent a fortune on it. I want to know is this proper to do — religionwise? This woman has a church to go to. She doesn't have to have a church right in her own home.

Her chapel is like a cathedral, she even has a cross on the roof! It looks to me like it is an insult to her own church. I would appreciate your opinion, and I'd also like to know how ministers feel about this.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: A chapel is a place to pray, right? So what's improper about building a place to pray in one's home?

CONFIDENTIAL TO PORTLAND VIEWPOINT: I'm with you. Anything that breeds jealousy, misunderstanding and hostility between husband and wife should be done away with. And the Company Christmas Party which excludes spouses heads the list!

Viola Soloist Guest Artist at Concert

PHILHARMONIC NIGHT — One of the most respected and acclaimed viola soloists was guest artist with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra Monday night in Community Theatre, Kingston. He is Walter Trampler, a superb musician who unites great virtuosity with penetrating interpretative insight. Critics agree Mr. Tramper plays with that seeming effortlessness which emphasizes his mastery of both music and instrument. For Monday night's concert, Mr. Trampler played "Concerto for Viola and Orchestra," by William Walton. The orchestra was conducted by Claude Monteux. The Philharmonic's opening Baczynsky. The orchestra is concert for the spring series also included Schumann's "Symphony No. 1, in B flat major," and "La mer' by Debussy.

Music Director Monteux, at left, discusses the program with two Ulster County members of his orchestra, Leonard Zimet and Mark scheduled to give three more concerts in Kingston: March 11, when Berenice Bramson, soprano, will be one of the featured soloists in an all-French program: April 1 and April 22

A new addition to the Philharmonic presentation was a set of stage lights obtained through a grant from the Kingston Foundation. Established by the late Jay E. and Lucia de L. Klock, former owners of the Kingston Daily Freeman, the Foundation is administered by Kingston Trust Company with co-trustee Harry duBois Frey, the newspaper's former general manager, now retired. Helpful Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE
THE BEST-DRESSED MOM IN THE EMERGENCY ROOM

Dear Heloise:

A recent article in your column suggesting that working girls plan their wardrobe on the weekend for the following week started me to thinking. Maybe housewives (or stay-at-homers) would do well to heed this bit of advice:

The housewives on our block always seem to be caught in the Mister's pajama top or their backyard bikini when the kiddo needs to be rushed downtown for stitches.

Why not get organized? My system for the Active Mother's Wardrobe requires three basic essentials which, plus an optional suggestion, should see us through until Friday.

(1) Emergency Room Outfit: Always have at least one clean pair of slacks and a reasonably coordinated top ready to go, in the front of your closet. Preload the pockets with hankies, comb, lipstick, lots of dimes, and the name of your insurance company and also the policy number. (The day you don't, will be the day you need it, of course!)

(2) Principal's Office Formal: Reserve at least one unopened package of hose in your drawer for the day you are called to "confer" with the school principal. It must be an unopened package — that's the only real guarantee I know of.

(3) Old Dodger's Uniform: Keep an old paint shirt handy to throw on when the house is a mess and his boss's wife is ringing the doorbell. This is also helpful when you're afraid the Girl Scout leader will stop by to ask you to take over the cookie sale.

Panic Button Shift (Optional): Locate, cultivate, and thoroughly brief a "twin" who is ten years younger, ten pounds slimmer, and ten times as organized as you.

WATCH FOR OUR SPECIAL NEXT WEEK!

GOOD FOR TWO — Earl Monroe of the Knicks hits for two points against Portland Trail Blazers in disputed game at Madison Square Garden. Blazers are protesting game won by Knicks 119-116 in overtime on grounds referee had whistled halt in play before Monroe's game-tying shot in regulation time. (UPI)

Is Noren Next A's Pilot?

OAKLAND (UPI) — Irv Noren is the odds-on favorite to be named manager of the World Champion Oakland A's today but Charlie Finley, a man full of surprises, might upset all the forecasts and pull a name off Cloud 9.

Ever since Finley and Dick Williams, who led the A's to the World Championship the last two seasons, parted ways, Noren has been the favorite to take over as manager, if for no other reason than he has been a coach on the club the last three years and is 4-1 while filling in for Williams.

The fact spring training begins in less than a week makes it even more predictable that Noren will get the job but Finley doesn't operate as other club owners, so anything is possible.

Sherm Lollar, who managed the A's' Tucson farm club in the Pacific Coast League, former big league skippers Bill Rigney, Alvin Dark and Dave Bristol, "retired" A's second baseman Dick Green and even old Satchel Paige are other candidates.

Finley, who wound up a 10-plus hour day of arbitration hearings Tuesday concerning salary contracts of MVP Reggie Jackson and Joe Rudi, said only that "I'll name a manager Wednesday morning. I'm not going to tell you his name now. Come on over and meet the man when I introduce him."

That sort of remark leaves the door open to a surprise pick but Finley has been known to lead newsmen down the wrong path in the past and it wouldn't be beyond him to do it again.

Still, a Kansas City, Mo. banker named Delbert James stepped off a plane at San Francisco Airport Tuesday night and called to say that Paige, who has been his account for the last 20 years, had been invited to Oakland to be introduced as the A's' manager.

As far fetched as it may sound, in view of the fact Paige is in his 70s, some observers say they wouldn't be the least surprised if Finley makes him his next manager—the 12th since he bought the A's in the 1950s.

"It's the kind of trick Finley would love to pull off," said one observer, "although he might be going a little too far picking a man of Paige's age."

Everybody Relaxed But Monroe

NEW YORK (AP) — "We go'cha tonight, baby!"

The Portland Trail Blazers had never "gotten" New York in Madison Square Garden. In all seven previous games, the Knicks had come out on top. Now, though, it appeared the Blazers were finally about to break the string.

Less than two minutes remained in the fourth quarter and Portland was leading 103-96. With some of the 19,694 fans already heading for the exits, the Knicks called time out.

Walt Frazier headed toward the New York bench. Rick Roberson of Portland sidled up to him and announced with a cheshire-cat grin: "We gotcha tonight, baby!"

Sez who? Baby, the Knicks hadn't even started yet. Bill Bradley got the last of his 25 points with a basket on a rebound. Earl Monroe stole the ball and gave it to Frazier for a layup—then they did the exact same thing again. In 18 seconds, the Knicks had shaved a seven-point spread to one.

Sidney Wicks, who wound up as Portland's top scorer with 34 points, sank one free throw—but also missed one. Monroe bombed in a 20-foot jumper. Fifty seconds to go and the score was tied 104-104.

Wicks made two more foul shots. Twenty-eight seconds to go and the Blazers in front 106-104. Then came the play that, for any number of reasons, had everybody in an uproar.

With the 24-second clock clicking down, Bradley dribbled under the Knicks' basket. The ball was knocked away but bounced up and hit the bottom of the backboard. The clock was reset to 24 and started ticking down again. The ball ricocheted out to Monroe in the left corner.

Referee Bob Rakel glanced at the clock, then suddenly blew his whistle and waved his arms, calling a halt to the action. Everybody eased up—except Monroe. He uncorked a shot from the corner. It went in cleanly. The Garden exploded in ecstatic cheers—which turned to vicious boos when Rakel kept waving, signaling "no basket."

But after a brief chat at the scorer's table, Rakel reversed himself. The basket was good, the score was tied . . . and in case somebody forgot to mention it just then, the Trail Blazers were doomed. The Knicks' 119-116 overtime victory was somehow anticlimactic. As Roberson put it, sidling up to Frazier again in the extra period: "Maybe I spoke too soon."

Frazier, who finished with 32 points, and Monroe, who added 29, did all the scoring in the extra period, Frazier sinking the winning basket 15 seconds from the buzzer on a deep, twisting fall-away jumper and Monroe adding two free throws with two seconds to go.

And what about those fans, Frazier was asked, those supposedly die-hard supporters who had walked out on their heroes?

Frazier grinned a cheshire-cat grin of his own. "They'll learn."

Trail Blazers General Manager Harry Glickman thinks Rakel needs to learn a few more things about officiating. He's so steamed up about Rakel's allowing Monroe's shot that he said he'd lodge an official protest.

"Everybody in the building saw him blow the whistle and motion 'no basket,'" said Glickman. "This is the second time we've been robbed in this building. Our guys played their hearts out and beat the Knicks and it's been taken away from them."

Rakel acknowledged he'd made a mistake—but not the one Glickman was angry about. "I blew my whistle inadvertently," he said. "I read the clock wrong. I thought the 24-second clock said 00. I was positive Monroe's shot was on the way before I blew my whistle. The blowing of the whistle had nothing to do with Monroe's shot."

And what did Monroe say? Without coming flat out and saying he'd shot late, "the Pearl" commented: "I heard the whistle, but it's just good basketball sense to follow up the play."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Bob McAdoo and the redhot Buffalo Braves blew the Milwaukee Bucks off the court, 145-109 for a Buffalo scoring record. Chicago clobbered Phoenix 130-96, Boston defeated Detroit 107-97, Golden State clipped Cleveland 104-98 and Kansas City-Omaha downed Los Angeles 92-86.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky beat Memphis 109-97 and Indiana topped San Antonio, 107-110. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Bucks with 38 points, 25 in the first half. McAdoo racked up 36 for Buffalo in less than three quarter of play. The Braves shot a sizzling team-record 66.7 per cent from the floor, in the 36-point differential, the widest victory margin the team has ever run up.

Jack Marin added 20 points and Ernie DiGregorio 18 in the Braves' assault.

Barnes' Big Night

By FRED ROTHENBERG

When you're Marvin Barnes, and you can score 32 points and grab 23 rebounds, you can apparently set your own rules.

Barnes shuns pre-game warmups, much to the displeasure of his coach, Dave Gavitt, and the big Providence center sometimes shuns the games' first half.

"He came out to play in the second half," said Rhode Island Coach Jack Kraft after Barnes warmed up in the first half with nine points, then caught fire in the next 20 minutes with 23 more points leading 11th-ranked Providence to a 76-73 college basketball victory over Rhode Island Tuesday night.

"He's just outstanding," added Kraft. "There isn't much you can do when he wants to play."

"Marvin was great in the last three minutes," said Gavitt, who added he wouldn't discipline Barnes even though the 6-foot-9, 213-pound player ambled on the court for the pre-game practice seven minutes after his teammates.

Elsewhere in the Top 20, 15th-ranked Creighton beat California-Irvine 83-52 and 20th-ranked Louisville defeated Wichita State 106-90.

Junior Bridgeman tossed in 28 points and Louisville outscored Wichita State 36-8 at the foul line for the Cardinals' eighth Missouri Valley Conference victory in nine outings.

Bridgeman sank 11 of 18 from the floor and the Cardinals went 36 for 50 at the foul line.

Robert Wilson's game-high 29 points paced Wichita State.

Gene Harmon, with 24 points, and Doug Brookins, with 16, led Creighton past University of California-Irvine.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Phil Sellers, who scored his 1,000th career point en route to a 25-point game, helped Rutgers to an 89-82 victory over Connecticut; freshman forward Glen Williams' seven straight baskets sparked a second-half rally that snapped Boston College's seven-game winning streak and gave St. John's an 80-72 victory; Bennie Allen's jumpers with 27 seconds left and five seconds remaining forced the overtime and St. Peter's, N.J. ran off six straight points in the overtime to defeat Boston University 113-108, and Navy captain Bob Marshburn scored 8 points to help beat Adelphi.

For Islanders: Terrific Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Coach Al Arbour says the first period of Tuesday night's 5-3 victory over Montreal was the finest period of hockey the Islanders had ever played.

He wasn't with the club last season — the Islanders' first in the National Hockey League — but that doesn't matter.

New York held the powerful Canadiens to just three shots on goal while taking 16 at Montreal goalie Bunny Larocque, scoring once and taking a lead they never relinquished in beating the Canadiens for the first time in 10 tries.

In other NHL games Tuesday night, the St. Louis Blues crushed the Atlanta Flames 7-1 and the Vancouver Canucks defeated the Los Angeles Kings 4-3.

In the World Hockey Association, the Quebec Nordiques edged the Cleveland Crusaders 6-5 in overtime and the Toronto Toros topped the Vancouver Balzers 5-4, also in overtime.

Veteran Eddie Westfall, who scored two goals and led New York to victory, said, "I keep telling the young guys to keep working and make things happen. It was nice to play in the other team's end for a change."

Blues 7, Flames 1

Wayne Merrick scored two goals and added two assists to give new St. Louis Coach Lou Angotti his first victory and break the Blues' eight-game winless streak.

Canucks 4, Kings 3

Third-period goals by Gerry O'Flaherty and Paulin Bordeleau broke a 2-2 tie and led the Canucks past the Kings.

Nordiques 6, Crusaders 5

Michel Parizeau's third goal of the game, one vehemently protested by Cleveland goalie Gerry Cheevers, gave the Nordiques their overtime victory over the Crusaders.

Cheevers contended that Quebec had been offside on the play and that the goal should have been disallowed. He was given a misconduct penalty.

Toros 5, Blazers 4

Brit Selby capped a four-goal third-period Toronto comeback, then scored the winning goal after 5:56 of sudden-death to bring the Toros to victory from a 4-0 deficit.

Albany All Stars Lead ABC

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The Albany, N.Y., All Stars continue to hold their lead in the regular team standings as the American Bowling Congress Tourney moved through its third day of a 79-day stand Tuesday.

Albany heads the list with a series of 3,073. Libra Industries of Jackson, Mich., moved past the Tall Timbers Supper club of Dayton, Ohio, and into second place with a 3,055.

Forest Dalton and Paul Brandon of St. Louis continued atop the regular doubles with a 1,302. They had displaced first-round leaders Greg Steinke and Custis Benham of Lansing, Mich., by 13 pins.

Bob Guile of Albany remained atop the regular singles with his 679 series Sunday, six pins ahead of Gerald Wickman of Minneapolis.

Bill Hohensee, a teammate of Guile, continued to top the all events with 2,058, taking over yesterday from first-day leader Mitch Bereznoff of Flint, Mich.

First Jumper, TV for WFL

BY JOE CARNICELLI

NEW YORK (UPI) — The new World Football League Tuesday took two steps toward getting off the drawing board and onto the playing field and is now set for perhaps its biggest move next month.

The newly-organized league, which intends to open a weekday schedule in July, announced the signing of a Game of the Week television package which will bring the WFL's 12 clubs about $1 million. The games will be televised on Thursday nights beginning July 18 and will include 20 regular season games, two playoffs and the league's title game.

The Thursday night game for national television will be the only game played that night. The rest of league will be play on Wednesday night, with clubs making their own local television arrangements.

The WFL also signed its first active NFL player for future delivery. He's Richmond Flowers, the starting strong safety for the New York Giants last season and a former world-class hurdler at Tennessee. Flowers said he will play out his option with the Giants this season and has signed a two-year contract with the WFL's Honolulu franchise beginning in 1975.

Flowers, a five-year NFL veteran, told Andy Robustelli, the Giants' director of player personnel, of his decision Tuesday morning.

"He really wasn't pleased," Flowers said, "but I think deep down, Andy can't blame me. It really wasn't a call to get a matching offer from the Giants. In fact, if the Giants were to match the contract with Honolulu, I would turn them down.

UCAL Mat Title to Onteora

ELLENVILLE — Still another pretender to Onteora High School's Ulster County Athletic League throne was disposed of here Tuesday night when the Boiceville Indians turned aside the stiff challenge of Ellenville, 27-17, to capture the 1974 UCAL pennant.

It was an exciting match, as expected, and the turning point just may have been the example of Onteora's famed depth displayed in the 135 pound class where Al Warren, filling in for the injured Paul Malek, decisioned Ellenville's Harris Marcus, 3-0.

Had Marcus, the favorite against the regular, much less the sub, beaten Warren, the match would have been tied at that point. Had he won by a fall, Ellenville would have been ahead. Instead, Onteora, which traded pins in the first two bouts, won two by decision, then dropped one by the count, widened its lead.

Ken St. John then took the next bout for Onteora, but Ellenville made things close by scoring with Rich Ellison at 148 pounds and Angelo Capozzoli at 158 pounds. In the crucial 170 pound match, Onteora's Todd Denman held Ted Nesbitt to a 1-1 draw, a big blow for the Ellies since they had to win that one what with Gary Van Leuven and Gary Graff coming up next for OCS.

"It was a good match," said Ellenville coach Pete Meoli. "I was disappointed though that we lost the 135 pounder and drew at 170 pounds."

180—Gary Van Leuven (O) dec. Stu Kozan, 9-2
218—Gary Graff (O) dec. Tony DelGaizo, 4-0

Ellenville had started off strongly when Angelo Torres pinned Carl Steen at 1:04 of their battle. But Robin Hunter, Onteora's strong 108 pounder, made quick work of Angelo's brother Ben, scoring by a fall at 31 seconds to turn the tide. Courtney Travis and Chris St. John then won for Onteora before Alex Schaefer picked up Ellenville's next points.

148—Bob Krom (R) dec. Wayne Shearer, 10-5.
158—Ted Nadratowski (R) won by disqualification
170—Keith Rugar (N) won by forfeit
178—David Walker (R) dec. Steve Smith, 4-1
218—Robert Kopsick (N) pinned Yale Weeks, 3:40

The teams had entered the once-postponed match with perfect 7-0 league records. When the get-together was rescheduled, it was probably with an eye towards the dramatic finale since it appeared evident that Onteora and Ellenville were to be the class of the league.

Onteora thus completed its league season with an 8-0 mark, one win better than Ellenville.

Rondout Valley had a score to settle of its own Tuesday. The Ganders needed a win over New Paltz to clinch third place and a win is what they got, 34-19, over the Hugies. That dropped New Paltz to a fourth place 4-4. Wallkill, with one match remaining, can tie for fourth with a win.

For UCCC...The Lost Season

By STEVE KANE

VALHALLA

Sometimes the Senators of Ulster County Community College act like the New York Knicks. Sometimes they act like F Troop. Tuesday night Ulster managed to combine both those imitations and wound up losing the biggest game of the season to host Westchester Community, 83-78.

The contest was decided in the last four minutes. At that point, with the hour approaching midnight, the score was 72-all thanks to an Ulster rally sparked by Chris Cummings.

But Cummings went from hero to goat in the span of seconds, and UCCC's bid went down the drain.

What Cummings did right was pack a steal, a block and two clutch baskets into 30 seconds to wipe out a Viking lead that had stood up for the entire game. What he did wrong was to panic with power and heave a shot so ridiculously long that it was little more than a turnover.

Westchester used the break in the Senators' momentum to run off six straight points, four on foul shots, then sat on the ball until the chance for an Ulster win passed.

It was almost Wednesday when the final buzzer sounded. That was because the Senators didn't make it to the gym until an hour past gametime. Some of them, that is — the rest, including coach Jerry Moss, showed up 30 minutes after that.

The delay began when Ulster's team van broke down and its replacement was discovered to be a victim of the energy crisis. The next question was "Car No. 2, where are you?" Answer — New York City.

Eventually, however, everybody showed up. Westchester declined to claim a forfeit, as it could have done, because coach Ralph Arietta remembered a few years back that the shoe was on the other foot.

Ulster, thus armed with excuses, hurriedly warmed up then proceeded to play a lousy first half. Only Steve Richardson and Ike Chestnut seemed unaffected by the journey, and those two scored 22 of UCCC's 34 points.

Westchester had a 12-point lead on good rebounding and general aggressiveness. The Vikings didn't let go of it easily in the second half.

Ulster, appearing refreshed after intermission, got quickly back to within six. Linc Sessoms promptly hit on an amazing assortment of shots to boost the Westcos back to 12. It stayed that way until Cummings got hot.

In a stretch of three minutes Ulster outscored Westchester 16-2 to tie the game. Richardson, who won a starting berth in this gym a year ago, grabbed every rebound in sight to keep it going. It only fizzled when the Senators turned the ball over then had to foul to try to get it back.

"I'm really proud of the way my kids stayed calm at the end," Arietta breathed after the game. "We couldn't buy a basket, so we had to stall. I'm just glad I don't ever have to see Richardson again."

Westchester improved to 21-5 on the year and all but locked up the Mid Hudson Conference championship. Ulster saw its six-game winning streak stopped and fell to 13-8.

One factor that did not appear to affect Ulster's play was the recent decision by the regional selection committee to bar UCCC from the post season tournament. The Senators had pointed too long to this game to let it be overshadowed.

As the gym emptied out, Nelson Marcelle sat dejectedly on the bleachers and wrapped himself in a towel. "I played a bad game," he said. He could have spoken for a lot of people when he was asked how the team felt about being kicked out of the tournament.

"What are they trying to do to us anyway?" he answered.

Hudson Stays Hot...NPS Cools

NEW PALTZ

Glenn Hudson is still hot but the rest of his New Paltz State basketball teammates have cooled off.

The Hawks dropped their second game in a row, 13th of the season, Tuesday night to bigger Paterson, N.J. State, 89-76, as the visitors put five men in double figures to go home with the victory.

New Paltz, which had won seven of 10 until it lost to Lehman Saturday, this time wasn't really in it except for one brief flurry at the outset of the second half when Coach Joe Donovan's Birds chopped a 16-point lead down to nine by scoring seven straight points.

Paterson, however, quickly recovered and kept New Paltz at bay the rest of the night.

The Hawks were hurt when Ron Domanski, their hard-nosed freshman center, picked up four personal fouls in the first half. Domanski's junior sub Paul Flippen did well, but his efforts weren't quite enough.

Hudson, meanwhile, New Paltz' third highest all-time scorer, added 25 more points to make it 1,080 for his three-year career. The senior from Romilus has six games left to score 205 points, at which time he'd tie the record of 1285 set during the four-year career of Bob Dillman. Simple arithmetic reveals that Hudson would have to average over 34 points a game to do it.

A more realistic goal is the 1202 points scored by Joe Facciolli during his four years at New Paltz. Hudson needs 142 points, or a 23.6 average to reach the figure.

He may well set new marks for high seasonal and career averages.

Paterson, which now has a 10-13 record, got 22 points from Larry Dorsey and 21 from Rod Daniels.

New Paltz' record dropped 7-13. Should the near-impossible happen and the Hawks win its remaining games, they would finish at a .500 mark, 13-13.

Next action for the Birds is this weekend with a pair of SUNYAC games at Oswego Friday and Geneseo Saturday.

Ellies Outlast Highland

HIGHLAND

Only one thing prevented it from being a perfect night for Highland High School basketball coach Dick Becker Tuesday night: his team lost.

Becker was pleased with the way his team played in its Ulster County Athletic League battle with Ellenville, but the Ellies pulled victory from the grasp of the Big Blue by outscoring Highland 6-1 in the last 1:45 to win, 47-42.

"It was a beautiful ballgame," Becker said. "both sides played good basketball."

The difference proved to be fouls. Both clubs hit for 20 field goals, but the Ellies tossed in seven free throws to Highland's two. Ellenville had 13 attempts, Highland five. That was the margin of victory.

Flashy backcourtman Ray Younger was game high scorer with 16 points for Ellenville. Center Leon Ware tossed in 13.

Highland got 12 points from J.C. Gersch and 10 from Dave Mackey.

The win gave Ellenville a half game edge on Rondout in the Division I battle for third place. Rondout visits New Paltz tonight. Highland is in third in Division II and can do no better than tie Red Hook for second.

In other UCAL action tonight besides Rondout-New Paltz, unbeaten Fallsburgh is at Coleman, and Liberty takes on Marlboro on the Dukes' court.

Sawyers' Defense Stymies Lourdes

SAUGERTIES

A good defense can go a long way.

Saugerties High School couldn't have played much better on defense in the third quarter of its Dutchess County Scholastic League basketball game with Our Lady of Lourdes Tuesday night. The Sawyers were two points down going into the period yet eight minutes later they were up by 13. Holding Lourdes to just one bucket during the quarter, Saugerties went on to score a 63-53 victory.

"We were a little sluggish in the first half," explained Saugerties coach Larry Marcus after his team had moved past Lourdes into seventh place in the DCSL. "Lourdes was beating our press, so we moved it back to halfcourt and from then on we played well."

The Sawyers found themselves behind, 28-26, at halftime, not bad for a team having a so-so evening. When they straightened themselves out it was all Saugerties as the home team outscored Lourdes 17-2 in the third quarter and 25-23 in the final period.

Again it was a balanced offensive attack that put the points on the board for Saugerties. Larry Panella, with another strong performance, led the Sawyers with 19 points. Scott Emery had 14 (and also played tough defense on Lourdes' ace Tim Keating). Chris Luley hit for 12, and Arnie Hackett added 10 as well as pulling down 15 rebounds.

Keating led Lourdes with 14, but eight of his points were from the foul line. Phil Colangelo scored 13, Mike Gioia 11.

"I think we're really making progress now," observed Marcus. "Everybody chipped in and they played well on offense and defense."

Saugerties is now 5-10 with a Friday game at Arlington.

It would have been a night to rejoice no matter what the varsity did since the Sawyer JV team snapped its 14-game losing streak by taking the opener 63-60 behind Steve Panella's 23 points.

KHS Needs Win Over NFA

NEWBURGH

A win tonight at Newburgh Free Academy sure would do Kingston High's basketball team a world of good, not only for what it would prove to Section One tournament selectors, but also for what it would do to help restore life into a team that has been hard-pressed to play decently in recent outings.

The Maroons are coming off back-to-back losses to Beacon and Arlington, the latter a startling upset, and now boast (if that's the right word for it) an overall record of 8-7. Following tonight's game with the Goldbacks, KHS visits Roosevelt Friday and winds up the regular season Tuesday at Poughkeepsie. The way Kingston has been playing, three more defeats are a distinct possibility.

Nevertheless, the raw talent remains on Coach Mike Rienzo's team, and perhaps the sight of Coach Mickey Burkoski's Goldbacks will stir up enough fire in Kingston to get it going again.

The teams met earlier this season in the Kate Walton Field House with Newburgh scoring a three-point victory in double overtime. It was KHS' third game of a bruising week and the Maroons went into the NFA tilt without forward John Dawson. They're expected to be at full strength this evening.

Newburgh, 9-5, has been playing its best ball of the year and most recently knocked off North Rockland.

Marist Topples Nyack

POUGHKEEPSIE

Marist College vaulted out to a 24-2 lead and never looked back Tuesday night to post a one-sided 102-82 basketball victory over visiting Nyack College at Dutchess County Community College.

Ray Murphy and Jim Dirskell split 24 points down the middle to gain game high honors for the Red Foxes. Ron Kaylor led all shooters with 32 points for Nyack.

The win boosted Marist's record to 9-13. Nyack dropped to 2-19. The Red Foxes go to Southampton Friday night.

Broncos Get Minor

DENVER (UPI) — The Denver Broncos Tuesday announced the signing of third round draft choice Claudie Minor, a 6-3, 280-pound defensive tackle from San Diego State. Minor rounds out the signing of Denvers' top four draft choices. Earlier linebacker Randy Gradishar of Ohio State; defensive tackle Carl Wafer of Tennessee State and defensive back Ozell Collier from Colorado inked Bronco pacts.

Buboltz and Smith Set Junior Marks

KINGSTON — Two new all-time records have been established in the Ulster County Junior Bowling Association. Mary Anne Buboltz, 14-year-old Junior Girl Division bowler, slammed a 575 series to eclipse her own mark of 556 set in the 1971-72 season. She had games of 165, 224 and 186.

Mary Anne is a two-time winner of the UCHBA County Award for league high triple, having won in the Bantam division with 524 and last year with 556 in the Junior Division.

Jami Smith, 12-year-old Bantam bowler, fired 538 with games of 213, 166 and 159 to break the old record of 524, set by Mary Ann Buboltz in the 1971-72 season.

Jami ended the 1972-73 season with a 122 average and was in the season's Top Ten list with a 182 single and 452 series.

Russian Racer Leads Nordic

By JAN NICKLASSON

FALUN, Sweden (UPI) — Galina Kulakova of Russia won the 10 kilometer race in the World Nordic Ski Championships Wednesday which also saw a surprisingly good performance from Martha Rockwell of Putney, Vt.

Kulakova, a 31-year-old teacher, also is expected to lead Russia's team to a victory in Saturday's 20 kilometer race, thus repeating her trick from the 1972 Winter Olympics at Sapporo, Japan, when she won all titles at stake.

The winner's time was 31 minutes 25.78 seconds.

Barbara Petzold, a blond, pretty, 19-year-old East German student, won the silver in 31:50.55 while Helana Takalo gave Finland its first female medal in these games, placing third in 31:59.54.

The big surprise, however, was Miss Rockwell, 29, who grabbed a tenth place, the best performance ever for an American girl in a world championship event. Miss Rockwell, who beat many of the favorites, including two Russians, two Finns and also the Swedish girls, was timed in 32:46.86. She lost the battle for ninth place against one of the favorites, Marjatta Kajosmaa of Finland, a double individual medalist in Sapporo, by only 2.5 seconds.

Miss Rockwell might have placed even better if she had not crashed into a course official while coming downhill toward the finish area.

Area Sports Schedule

KHS' Sippel in Third Place

WICCOPEE — Kingston High's Rich Sippel captured third place in the 155-pound class in the Division IV tournament of Section One wrestling competition.

Sippel pinned Russ Bickford of John Jay in 3 minutes in his first match, then pinned Tim Roth of Somers in 1:35. He lost in the semi-finals to Rich Bleir of Somers, the eventual winner, by the narrow margin of 3-2.

In the "wrestle back" or consolation division, Sippel decisioned John Mason of Roosevelt, 7-0 in overtime, and decisioned Robert Columbo of Brewster, 5-1, to nail down third place.

Somers won the team competition with 89 points. John Jay finished second with 82½. Other leaders: Ossining 78½ and Carmel 53. Kingston finished in a tie for 12th place with nine points, all scored by Sippel.

Handlebar Takes on Corner

WHAT WILL YOU BE DOING 5 YEARS FROM NOW?

Your job is O.K., but it's not what you want to be doing the rest of your life.

Maybe there is not enough satisfaction in it, or enough security, or enough opportunity for you to assume a position of real responsibility. That's why we want to sit down with you and talk about your future as a CARROL'S RESTAURANT MANAGER.

You must be at least 21 years old and a high school graduate. We offer job security, a starting salary of $160 a week, pay while you are learning and promotion based on ability and performance.

To arrange an interview, please send name, address, phone number and resume to:

Mr. Tom West

Your Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Getting some worthwhile things accomplished early in the day could quickly change to a big argument, but if you keep calm you find this soon passes. The afternoon is splendid for adopting new course of action. Be openminded.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Being with good friends is fine now but avoid one who is overly dynamic and could get on your nerves. Engage in social interests.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 10) Stop procrastinating and seek the advice from a bigwig in a most tactful manner. More precision is needed in handling routine tasks.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some new ideas that come to you can be helpful in your career. Take a more kindly attitude toward others. Plan any trips wisely.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take time to do finishing touches on a new project you have begun. Figure out how to have more rapport with mate. Be happy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Steer clear of a bigwig and this becomes a successful day for your. Try to be more cooperative with associates. Attend the social tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Co-workers can be of great help tc you today, so coordinate your efforts more intelligently. Show others you have excellent taste.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Talk policy matters over with associates early in the day. Take mate to special amusement you mutually enjoy. Avoid one who gossips.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Morning may start serenely but later gets hectic at home so take steps to sweeten disposition of king. Be sure to keep appointments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make and keep appointments of a business nature early and then get busy improving home affairs. Converse with good friends tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use wisdom in coming to decisions of a business nature in the morning. Later discuss them with allies. Use more skill in your work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Being as gregarious as you like is fine provided you are not too forceful with others. Be sure to take health treatments you need.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make plans that will bring you greater happiness and success in the future. Remove stumbling blocks in path of your progress.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will make a big success in life because of the fine ideas always ruminating within this mind. Give the finest education you can afford, and your gifted progeny will soon command a very large income at whatever outlet is decided upon. Be sure to give religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

UNDATED: (Q.) I am 16, in eleventh grade, and considered very attractive. My problem is I never have a date. I flirt with some boys, and sometimes am aggressive. Maybe this is why they don't take me out, although they seem to like it.

When I do get asked out. I am afraid to accept because the boy may spread the word around that I am a prude, and don't do as much as I act like I would. What do you think?—Afraid in Florida.

(A.) There is a middle ground between being a prude and being promiscuous. Other girls find that middle ground, and so can you. You can have a good time and give a boy a good time without doing anything wrong.

Try being yourself, honest, open. Don't give boys the impression you are something that you are really not.

REACTION: (Comment) May I reply to Mr. "24 and Male in Alabama" and remind him of some facts that he is too dumb to understand. He obviously thinks he is a free gift to girls but he is too stupid to know that a girl's future husband will not need the free training that Mr. Stupid wants to give all girls.

Sooner or later Mr. Stupid will get VD and he will blame the girl.

Obviously this 24-year-old jerk never reads the Bible. This book of all books will tell him that his sin will surely find him out—Father of a Nice Girl in Texas.

(A.) "Twenty-Four and Male" in Alabama wrote to criticize "straight-and-narrow" answers in Teen Forum and to advocate teenage sex. I answered him that I believe the fears a teenage girl experiences when she sleeps with her boy friend can cause more scars than continence might cause.

Any expert would bring six notrump home with today's cards. He would go after the clubs by leading the 10 from dummy.

An East player might solve his problems by covering, but an expert East would duck quickly. It wouldn't do expert East any good. Expert South would let the 10 ride!

He would do this because it's the best play. He plans to take a second finesse later on if the 10 loses to the king or queen.

Let's see why this is the best play. There is no way to avoid the loss of two club tricks if West holds K-Q-4; K-Q-2 or K-Q-4-2. This play of two finesses will also lose to K-Q doubleton, but it wins any time East started with either one or both of the honors.

The next best play is to lay down the ace. This will win against K-Q doubleton in the West hand any other 2-2 break or any 3-1 break with divided honors.

The worst play is to let the 10 ride with the plan of playing the ace next. This wins against all 2-2 breaks and against any combination including both king-queen in the East hand, but it loses to all 3-1 breaks with divided honors.

Incidently the respective chances of succes of the three lines of play are 76 per cent for two fineses; 66 per cent for banging down the ace and only 62 per cent for one finessse followed by the play of the ace.

Kissinger's Fourth Middle East Visit Might Be Toughest

WASHINGTON (U P I) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's trip to the Middle East next week to try to get Israel and Syria to begin military disengagement talks presents the globe-trotting diplomat with his toughest task so far in that area.

That was the view expressed today by both American and foreign officials in the wake of the White House announcement Tuesday that Kissinger would leave Monday on his fourth peace mission to the area in three months.

Diplomatic sources said President Nixon's decision to send Kissinger out to the turbulent area so urgently—only a day after he returns from a meeting with Latin American foreign ministers in Mexico — represented acceptance of an Arab formula agreed upon in Algeria last week to try to move ahead with peacemaking in the area.

The Kissinger mission also is expected to speed the day when the Arabs lift their embargo against the shipment of oil to the United States.

Foreign Ministers Ismail Fahmy of Egypt and Omar Sakkaf of Saudi Arabia never did disclose the "good news" they had told reporters they planned to present to Nixon during their meeting with him at the White House Tuesday. Nor did the United States disclose exactly what it was they had said.

However, Sakkaf told a news conference it was only the "first step" in a proposal, agreed to by Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Algeria and Syria, for breaking the deadlock over the disengagement of Israeli and Syrian troops on the Golan front.

The Saudi Arabian minister complained rather bitterly about past U.S. support for Israel, including the $2.2 billion in military aid rushed to that country when it was about to be defeated in the October war. However, these remarks, as well as other criticisms of Washington, appeared to most diplomats to be the pro forma denunciations required for home consumption and a general interpretation of his statements was on the optimistic side.

Diplomatic sources said that the Arab formula consisted of these proposals:

—Syria would agree to supply the United States with the names of Israeli prisoners of war captured during the October war and the United States could then hand the list to Israel, which has refused to talk disengagement until it receives the names of the men who are held. This would get around Syria's adamant refusal to hand the list directly to Israel.

—Israel would agree to begin discussions with Syria on separating the forces of the two sides on the Golan Heights under ground rules which would encompass some Israeli withdrawal but make arrangements to protect Israeli security.

—The beginning of the lifting of the oil embargo on a gradual basis as progress was made in the talks.

—Pledges by the United States, which already has provided most of the money for United Nations support of the Palestinian refugees to further assist in planning for a solution of their problems, which dates back to the partition of the country in 1947.

Western Hemisphere Foreign Ministers In Mexico Sessi on

WASHINGTON (U P I) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today takes his deepest plunge into Latin American affairs—to hear what gripes and proposals Latin countries have about the United States.

Kissinger left today for Mexico to attend a three-day Western Hemisphere foreign ministers meeting on subjects as knotty as economic coercion, trade policies and multinatinal corporations.

Latin diplomats have often said Kissinger was always tied up with Moscow, Asia and the Middle East with little time left for their affairs. Last October at the United Nations he asked a group of them to come forward with their suggestions.

The Latins responded in November by drawing up an eight-point agenda and called a hemisphere "Conference of Tlatelolco," the Aztec name of the Mexican foreign ministry, at which to tell Kissinger more specifically what's on their minds.

One item on the Latin-drawn agenda is "economic coercion." An example given by Latin diplomats was the U.S cutting off military aid to Ecuador several years ago following the seizure of American tuna boats by Ecuador's Navy. Another item: How to control multinational corporations.

One agenda item calls for discussion of the Panama Canal. Kissinger, on a recent trip to Panama, renewed U.S. promises to eventually turn the canal and its zone over to Panama. Others are more general, involving trade and transfer of technology.

One item which Kissinger added to the agenda: The energy crisis and how it affects both developed and developing countries.

U.S., Peru Sign Pact After 5-Year Dispute

LIMA (UPI) — The United States today predicted improved ties with Peru following the signing of a $76 million pact ending more than five years of expropriation disputes between the two nations.

"We have a condition now where we can go forward to a normal fruitful relationship between two natural trading partners," White House aide Peter Flanigan said.

U.S. sources said the pact also paved the way for American participation in development of "potentially rich, sulfur free oil" deposits being discovered in the Peruvian Amazon.

Flanigan, President Nixon's top adviser on foreign economic affairs, who flew to Lima Tuesday for the signing of the accord, expected to relax strained relations caused by Peru's takeover of U.S. companies.

In Washington, the State Department said Peru had previously agreed to pay $74 million in undisputed claims to U.S. firms, raising the total compensation by the Lima government for expropriations to $150 million.

The United States, in signing the accord, agreed to drop the most controversial expropriation case—the Peruvian takeover of the International Petroleum Co. (IPC).

The government of Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado nationalized IPC, an Exxon subsidiary, soon after it took power in an October, 1968, military coup, cooling relations between the two nations.

The $76 million was compromise compensation for some $300 million in claims from the companies seized by Peru's leftist military government.

The nationalized firms included Cerro de Pasco, a copper, lead, gold and sliver mining concern, and four W.R. Grace paper, printing and liquor subsidiaries.

The agreement also covered two Chevron refineries, a Starkist Foods plant and five firms in Peru's fishing industry. Others were International Proteins, General Mills, Standard Oil of Calif., H.B. Zachary, Brown and Root Overseas, and Morrison-Knudson branches.

The agreement called for the United States to cancel compensation claims against Peru in exchange for Lima relinquishing tax claims against the nationalized firms.

Gen. Edgardo Mercado Jarrin, prime minister of Peru's military government, said his country intended to seek better relations with the United States "on a level of equality, mutual respect and loyal cooperation."

Golda, Dayan Attempt To Resolve Conflict

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Defense Minister Moshe Dayan rocked Israel's caretaker government today with a call for new elections and a threat to resign unless given a "decisive and unambiguous" endorsement from the ruling Labor party.

Prime Minister Golda Meir's cabinet went into secret emergency session today to discuss Dayan's surprise statements to a group of student leaders.

Political leaders said the moves put Dayan and Mrs. Meir, two of Israel's most powerful political figures, in direct conflict and could split the Labor party, which has run the nation since independence in 1948.

Ministers were on edge as they showed up for the meeting at Mrs. Meir's office.

"How the hell did you find out there was going to be a cabinet meeting this morning?" Israel Galili, Mrs. Meir's closet political advisor, snapped at one newsman.

The Israeli national radio said Dayan called for new elections and threatened to resign Tuesday night in a speech to student leaders after failing to get the Labor party to form a coalition with the rightwing Likud opposition.

"Since a national unity government is not a realistic possibility at the moment, I propose dissolving the Knesset (parliament) and holding new elections," the radio quoted Dayan as saying.

Dayan was reported saying, "I am willing to serve in the next government if I get decisive and unambiguous support from the leaders of the (Labor party) alignment and its institutions."

"Under present conditions, without such wide support, I am not willing to be a minister," he reportedly said.

Mrs. Meir, who met Dayan at her office before the cabinet meeting, was expected to inform President Ephraim Katzir during the aftenoon of plans for a new coalition government without Likud.

Dayan, in statements made through associates, said Tuesday afternoon he would refuse to join Israel's next cabinet unless the Labor Party agrees to share power with the Likud bloc.

Mrs. Meir issued a statement later in the day, however, saying a broad coalition with Likud would create a government of paralysis unable to make decisions in peace talks with the Arabs.

Mrs. Meir has headed a shaky, caretaker government since the Dec. 31 national elections failed to give any party a majority in the 120-seat Knesset.

Labor lost eight of its 59 Knesset seats in the vote and has failed since then to form a new government with its old coalition partners, the National Religious party and the Independent Liberal party.

Alleged Red Plot Uncovered in Greece

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The Greek military regime says it has uncovered a Communist plot to overthrow it and expects to arrest more of the plotters.

A government spokesman said Tuesday that 35 members of the outlawed Greek Communist party and its youth branch had been arrested so far.

The government also accused exiled opposition leader Andreas Papandreou of collaborating in the plot.

The announcement of the alleged plot came amid a government crackdown on opponents, including critical newspapers. A concentration camp on the Aegean island of Yiaros has been reopened, and about 120 persons are reported imprisoned there. Security police are roaming the campuses of the three universities in Athens on the lookout for dissenters.

The government claimed the Communists had spent $37,000 in the past month to foment a student uprising that was to pave the way for a Communist takeover. A spokesman said the uprising was to have started last Sunday.

Officials claimed the Communists also had a hand in the student rioting last November. But then a group of army generals stepped in and ousted the country's previous military dictator, President George Papadopoulos.

The government said subversive leaflets, printing machines and secret Communist party files had been confiscated, and two "Communist-inspired" student groups were disbanded.
